TRAFFIC VIOLATORS BEFORE JUDGE LOWE'S COURT

With a dozen cases of violation of traffic statutes coming up before his attention daily, Judge Lowe of the local recorder's court, has become not only an up-to-the-minute authority on the legal phase of the weaknesses of motorists, but has had ample opportunity to review the history of traffic legislation, and the manner in which vehicle ordinances are interpreted by magistrates of various communities.

Scoring the merciless manner in which magistrates of some communities levy fines on hapless motorists, Judge Lowe expressed the opinion that greater limitation should be placed upon the freedom of such magistrates to fix fines than is permitted at present.

But conditions for the motorists have increasingly become more favorable, asserted the judge, pointing out that not so long ago each municipality exercised the prerogative of enacting its own vehicle code and attaching penalties accordingly. This worked a double hardship on the automobile driver who travelling from one section of the state to another was frequently ignorant of traffic laws in the section in which he happened to be a stranger.

Believing that the time is ripe for a revisal of vehicle ordinances, Judge Lowe, who is in active touch with the American Automobile Association, suggests that the wisest procedure in this connection would be to enact national traffic legislation in order that motorists who travel from one state to another might not suffer from ignorance of vehicle laws in a section of the country which they might not be familiar.

FOUR FOND HEARTS CELEBRATE THEIR ANNIVERSARIES YESTERDAY.

Two happily wedded couples celebrated their marriage anniversary yesterday in an unusual manner but one that was none the less highly satisfactory to the twenty-four or more guests, old and young, who joined with them in the festival. The honorees were Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Love of 114 Laurel street, who have been married ten years and who are the fond parents of three children—Blanche, Dean and Carl Lovell. The second couple—sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. Lovell, were Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Havens of Los Angeles whose third anniversary it was.

These and the relatives they invited to share in the fete spent the day at Echo Park where there was plenty of entertainment for the youngsters of the party, and a mid-day feast that was pronounced "good" by the aforesaid youngsters.

The picnic table on which it was spread was beautifully decorated with flowers and adorned with two handsome cakes, elaborately frosted, one bearing the signficant dates "1911 and 1918," the other "June 26."

Besides the guests mentioned covers were laid for J. M. Lovell and wife, parents of D. C. Lovell and Mrs. Havens, and their family which includes two grand daughters, Berneice and Grace Coffey, and Miss Alta Lovell, all of whom live at 505 North Maryland avenue; Mrs. George Baker of Bellflower, daughter of J. M. Lovell and the three Baker children: Mrs. W. L. Taylor, also a daughter of J. M. Lovell, Mr. Taylor and their three children, who reside at 506 North Jackson street; Mrs. Jennie Darling, sister of J. M. Lovell, and her daughter Guila Darling of 108 South Everett street.

Both of the celebrating couples received gifts of practical utility, the Lovells rejoicing in a new aluminum cooker with all appliances. The Havens were equally pleased with a handsome folding leather music case.

NEGRO SENTENCED FOR LOVE AFFAIR

(By International News Service)

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 27.—Conviction under a stautory charge growing out of an alleged clandestine love affair with an Italian girl, whose name is rigidly guarded by officers, has landed Edgar Davidson, 20-year-old negro in the Arkansas State prison for a term of 21 years.

Davidson possibly escaped being lynched upon his return to Helena, Ark., from St. Louis, due to the secrecy surrounding the most unique crime in the history of Arkansas courts. Phillips County is the only county in the State that has never had a "lynching bee." In order to protect the name of the county the trial of Davidson was held in secret session, and the name of the Italian girl never has been divulged.

The negro, who formerly operated a fish market in the negro section of Helena, became intimate with the Italian girl and eloped with her. He was apprehended at St. Louis and returned here, being convicted when brought to trial.

COMFORT OF LOCAL COMPANY ASSURED AT THE NATIONAL GUARD CAMP

With the State National Guard encampment looming up on July 10, Capt. Thos. D. Watson of the local company is making such preparations as are necessary to assure the comfort of Glendale men who will go into training at the Yosemite valley camp for two weeks.

Last week the men were issued cotton uniforms and other new equipment so that they might be all in readiness, and today the company will ship to the camp quartermaster at Yosemite, property of a general nature including tents, tools that will be used in building camp, and kitchen utensils.

There is still an opportunity for a few more men to join the guard and take advantage of the two weeks' training they will receive with pay. Those already in the local company are enthusiastic over the prospects of camp and are anxious for the date of entrainment to arrive.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. HEACOCK

Body Taken to Former Home in Kansas by Husband and Son for Interment

The funeral services over the body of Mrs. L. A. Heacock, who died Friday evening, were held Sunday, 1:30 p. m., in the Jewel City Undertaking parlors. The services were brief, as the regular services will be held on arrival at the old home in Kansas. Rev. C. A. Cole officiated and after reading several passages of scripture he gave a brief sketch of the life and noble work of this Christian woman. Pauline Wilhelmina Munk was born in Ohio a little more than 81 years ago, and was one of 14 children. At the age of 27 she married L. A. Heacock. They spent most of their life together on the old farm near Attica, Kan. They made three trips to California before settling down a few months ago. Three sons and a daughter as well as several grandchildren and great-grandchildren, survive her, also a brother, Dr. Munk, a widely known Los Angeles physician who spends most of his time however, on his 80-acre ranch near Compton.

The bereaved husband and the son residing in Glendale, A. B. Heacock of 709 East Windsor road, started Sunday evening at 5:30 for the old home in Kansas, where the body will be laid at rest.

HALF-BREED SEEKS A SHARE OF FORTUNE

(By International News Service)

DETROIT, June 27.—Sixty years ago, it is claimed, Peter Girard, scion of one of Detroit's most prominent families of the day, married a half-breed girl in the Michigan wilds. A daughter was born to the couple.

The daughter, now the mother of three married daughters, has brought suit in Circuit Court here to obtain a share of the Girard estate, valued at $50,000.

MR. D. S. PHILLIPS ENTERTAINS SISTER

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Phillips of 207 West Chestnut street are entertaining Mr. Phillips' sister, Mrs. John Matthews of Houston and Eagle Lake, Tex., who arrived in Glendale Thursday morning. Mrs. Matthews was in California about two and one-half years ago, at which time she and her mother, Mrs. L. C. Phillips of Buffalo, Tex., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips for several weeks. This is purely a pleasure trip for Mrs. Matthews, the duration of which will be about ten weeks if business will permit her to remain that long from Texas, where she has large interests. The management of her large plantation has been left to her son, Herbert Matthews, during her absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are planning many delightful and interesting trips to surrounding points of interest, some of which their guest enjoyed on her last visit and of which she still has pleasant memories.

MOTORISTS, DO NOT PRESS HEAVILY ON ACCELATOR

Motorists, watch your step. Keep the right foot light on the accelerator. The intersection of Brand boulevard and Broadway is rivalling some of the busiest corners of Los Angeles, and Chief of Police Lampert is contemplating stationing a traffic officer astride the button that marks the business center of Glendale.

With the Christian Endeavor convention in full swing and the population of Glendale swelled to a mark of three thousand above its normal number, traffic along the main thoroughfares has increased to an unprecedented extent and has given rise to the proposal that a traffic officer be stationed at the busiest corner. Chief of Police Lampert has already made provisions to cope with the over crowded condition of the city in the employment of additional officers and it is possible that one of these may be assigned to regulating traffic.

Indicative of the increased traffic problem in Glendale in the situation which arose on Saturday at the corner of Los Feliz and San Fernando roads, when vehicles of every description became so jammed that it was necessary for one of the Glendale policemen, who happened to be passing by, to jump into the breach and act the part of traffic cop to straighten out the tangle, despite the fact that he was attired in neither the official uniform nor badge of his station.

AUTOMATIC SIGNAL AT SOUTH GATEWAY

In compliance with the request of the city trustees and the chamber of commerce a watchman will in future be stationed on Brand boulevard at the crossing of the Southern Pacific tracks to guide traffic that may be travelling north or south. This accident preventative measure has come about as the result of a general feeling in Glendale that the railway crossing at the south end of the city was a menace to the safety of motorists.

In a letter received this morning by City Manager Thomas Watson, W. H. Whalen superintendent of the Southern Pacific, announced that in compliance with the request of the city trustees and chamber of commerce a watchman would be stationed at the boulevard crossing of the tracks from 7 a. m. to 11 p. m., until an automatic signal might be installed.

Vigilance Necessary

A considerable quantity of lumber was stolen last night from a job at the corner of Pacific Avenue and Lexington Drive according to a police report led this morning by A. V. Cockrin who complains that the thief employed an automobile to carry the lumber off. The tracks of the automobile showed that it traveled north on Pacic avenue after the theft.

C. H. White, 229 24th Street, San Diego, a delegate to the Christian Endeavor Convention reported to the police department this morning that a motor meter was stolen from his automobile last night while a meeting was in session in the Endeavor auditorium.

Capt. Watson Favors Swimming Pool Bonds

My association with Glendale young people, says Captain Thos. D. Watson, has convinced me that a swimming pool would be a fine thing for them and a splendid civic asset. I have always felt that in order to keep our young people in Glendale we must make provision to entertain them. What better form of amusement could we have than a properly supervised swimming pool? We cannot escape the fact that young people crave amusement and if we fail to provide it here they will go elsewhere to get it. Help to solve the problem by voting "yes" on the bond issue to provide a swimming pool when you cast your ballot tomorrow.

REV. ROLAND DODGE AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The large audience which gathered at the Central Christian church Sunday morning and which included many delegates to the Christian Endeavor convention, had an opportunity to enjoy the very fine address made by Rev. Roland Dodge, field secretary at large for the Christian Endeavor union, whose theme was: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul and with all thy mind and with all thy might."

He declared this to be one of the fundamentals of religion applicable to the Jew, the Catholic or the Christian and for that reason, something that should be stressed. When he was in college fitting for the ministry, the thing constantly urged, he said, was "efficiency," as much education as a student could obtain that he might be better fitted for his work. Now he is pleased to see a change in the colleges which have come to realize that the big essential in such service is that a man should have all his heart engaged in it.

He referred to the efforts which scientists have made to learn something about the soul of man by weighing the body before and after life is extinct, but the problem has always eluded them. It makes little difference, said he, what clothes we wear, or what our outward semblance may be, the real personality is the soul inside, through which the spirit of Christ wells up like living water to spill itself in blessing upon the world. If we truly love the Lord with all our hearts, our thoughts will become consecrated to Him and His work. The soul of a man is unerringly revealed, he declared, by the thoughts he thinks when he is alone with God.

REMOVES PIN FROM THHROAT OF CHILD

(By International News Service)

LINCOLN, Neb., June 27.—Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Crancer received a telegram this morning from Philadelphia, Pa., conveying the news that the safety pin which was lodged open in the bronichal tubes of little Ray Crancer, the 18-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crancer, had been successfully removed this morning without even the aid of an anesthetic. Two minutes were all that were required to remove the object.

Mr. and Mrs. Crancer, accompanied by Dr. C. A. Reynolds, left Saturday afternoon to take their son to Dr. Chavalier Jackson, who is a specialist in removing foreign objects without the use of a knife. The work was done this morning by Dr. Jackson, who uses a bronchoscope for the removal of such objects.

The child swallowed the safety pin several weeks ago but as no immediate ill effects developed it was not thought to be serious. Last week he became ill and X-ray pictures showed the safety pin in the bronchial tubes.

Baseball Figures

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 27.—Baseball's current popularity is spreading beyond the "bush leagues and sticks" into the heart of America's rural communities, according to C. F. Brandes, Chicago traveling man and baseball fan.

Brandes tells of a game played between Stevensville and Bridgman, two little Michigan villages. Stevensville's population is 308, while Bridgman has 321 souls.

The attendance at the game was 1,138.

ANOTHER WEDDING AT NORTON HOME

Two young people who do not believe that marriage is a failure and who do believe that the better the day the better the deed, visited the home of Rev. C. R. Norton at 801 East Wilson avenue, Sunday at 10 a. m. and were united in marriage. To the bride, Miss Fern Marie Faith Selby it was like coming home, for she had known the Nortons in Moravia, Iowa. By Rev. Norton she had been baptized as a little girl and so familiar a visitor was she in their home that she was like another child. Four years ago she came to Los Angeles and it was quite natural that her heart should turn to her old pastor and friend, when the great even of her life approached.

The grom, Waldo E. Handy, is a successful real estate dealer in Hollywood. The only witnesses were George Satterfield, a special friend of the groom, and Mrs. Norton, who had beautifully decorated her home with flowers for the event.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Handy left for a brief honeymoon trip and on their return will be at home to their friends at 1030 North Alvarado Street until the beautiful new home they are building in Hollywood is ready for occupancy, which they expect will be in about two months.

Swimming Pool

Glendale's civic pride should be broad enough to provide adequate healthful recreation for the children of the city. I am whole-heartedly in favor of a swimming pool and as superintendent of schools appreciate what it will mean for the physical and spiritual betterment of Glendale's future citizens.

To fail to make provision for some sort of recreation to care for boys who would otherwise frequent the streets and place themselves in a position to become undesirable citizens, would be shirking our moral responsibilities. If every voter realized the vital influence a swimming pool within our own city limits might have on the betterment of our constantly increasing number of boys and girls, I am sure the bonds would carry with ease.

Superintendent of Schools.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

(By International News Service)

DUBLIN, June 27.—Many persons were killed and wounded in a new wave of week-end violence in Ireland. Two members of the crown forces and a woman were shot to death in an ambush attack at Milltown. A Sinn Feiner was killed and five members of the Irish Republican army captured in a battle at Clydaugh. A constable was killed from ambush at Kildorrerey.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 27.—Police today were investigating one of the most fiendish murders in the history of this city. Clara Donerson, 32, a negress, was blown to bits by a charge of dynamite placed on her body as she lay asleep in bed late last night. A second stick of dynamite with four feet of fuse, was found on the kitchen stove. Officers state that this charge, if exploded, would have wrecked the house. Allie Valentine, 27, and Boston Carr, 46, negroes, are being held for investigation by the police. Both have been keeping company with the woman, the police state.

TOLEDO, O., June 27.—Mrs. Rita French, 25, was shot and killed in her apartment here early this morning after a supposed quarrel with Raymond McNair. McNair then fired a bullet through his own brain and is dying at St. Vincent hospital. Mrs. French was the wife of Emmett French, an employe of the Postal Telegraph company. She had not been living with her husband for several months and, it is said, had been receiving attentions from McNair.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Dempsey and Carpentier will get $500,000 flat from Promoter Tex Rickard. The promoter had the privilege of giving the fighters a guarantee or a percentage and he chose a guarantee. Dempsey will get $300,000 and Carpentier $200,000. A certified check for the amount is in the hands of Stakeholder Edgren.

ELDORADO, Ark., June 27.—Three persons died here early today and three others are critically ill from eating toadstools, which they mistook for mushrooms. The dead: Mrs. A. W. Burton, 38, and Lawrence and John Gilreath, 7 and 5, respectively. Critically ill are: Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gilreath and another son.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The condition of Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, noted author and playwright, who was operated on Sunday morning for gall stones, was said this morning to be entirely satisfactory.

YONKERS, N. Y., June 27.—Mrs. "Fifi" Potter Stillman today won the greatest victory yet recorded in her counter action against her husband's suit for divorce, when all the testimony given by Dr. Hugh Russell, osteopath, was ordered stricken from the records by Referee Daniel J. Gleason.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., June 27.—In an effort to make a non-stop flight to New York city, David R. Davis, wealthy young California sportsman, and Eric Springer, widely known aviator, left March Field, near here, a few minutes before 6 o'clock this morning, in the Davis Trans-Continental, a huge biplane of the tractor type, in which they hope to fly to Mineola L. I., in 30 hours actual flying time.

LONDON, June 27.—While Premier Lloyd George is planning an Irish peace conference, the British war office is preparing for fresh military moves against the Sinn Fein in the event the parley fails, it was revealed today. An Aldershot dispatch says that troops, destined for service in Ireland, are being especially trained for "blockhouse warfare."

HALSEY, Ore., June 27.—One of four would-be bank robbers is dead, two of them are in jail, and a fourth is missing, following their attempted robbery of the Halsey bank early today. The four bandits were discovered about 1 o'clock this morning while trying to cut the glass from the front door of the bank.

A posse of citizens was organized before the robbers were frightened away, and when they fled, one was shot dead. Two of the bandits were captured after they had sped to Corvallis, Ore., in their automobile. The fourth member of the gang was missing.

SACRAMENTO, June 27.—In taking off from the flying field at Visalia, Calif., in a flight to Mather Field near here today, an army plane went into a tail spin and in the resulting crash Flying Cadets Harold C. Page of Union City, Mich., and Joseph Wetherby, of Fort Davis, Tex., were killed. The plane burst into flames immediately and the bodies of both men were severely burned before they could be extricated from the wreckage.

NOTED SINGER LEADS SONG SERVICE LAST NIGHT

Otis Ironmonger led the song service at the auditorium last evening; which is equivalent to saying that another fine praise service featured the evening session of the Christian Endeavor convention yesterday, with James Garth and Keith Brooks at the two pianos.

One of the most beautiful musical features of the convention so far was the fine rendition by the large chorus last evening of Gounod's "By Babylon's Wave." Their director, Robert S. Maile, may well be proud of them, for no less a musical personage than Otis Ironmonger said last night that this anthem was the most excellent he had ever heard at a convention.

Taking for his theme Mark 10:22, and Acts 6:8, Rev. Francis J. Van Horn, pastor of the First Congregational church of Oakland, gave a masterful address, comparing and contrasting the rich young man whose face fell and who went away sorrowing when the Master to whom he was greatly attracted told him to sell all his possessions, and Stephen, whose face shone like an angel's when he gave his all, his very life, for Him.

In its application to those attending the convention, the speaker said: "I am saying the ost solemn thing in the world to you when I say it is quite possible for a perfectly fine young man or young woman to turn away from Christ and bear a sorrowful face for life."

Dr. Van Horn's eloquent and forceful address was a plea for wholehearted, whole-time service of the Lord, as a life work, as a partner with Him in transforming the world and bringing souls to Him.

The cry of the poor old world in this day is for Christian leadership, said the speaker. This is being said in all sorts of gatherings not avowedly Christian, he said, and quoted in support of the statement the words of a number of prominent thinkers of the world today.

H. G. Wells, shrewd observer of world history, who has written all sorts of things, many of them in a pessimistic vein, says: "If the Christian churches can be aroused, then possibly there may be a ray of hope for this old world."

Sir Philip Gibbs says: "Europe is dying—the continent of civilization, of education, of the highest cultural development. If the Christian churches can be re-vitalized, there is a ray of hope."

Lord Robert Cecil, premier of Africa, at the close of a pessimistic address, says, "Maybe these Christian churches can form some organization to prevent another outbreak; neither politicians, newspapers nor statesmen can prevent another war."

Elihu Root, New York senator, before the students of the University of California, expressed this opinion: "The only hope of the world is in moral leadership." And the only moral leadership, added the speaker, is Christian leadership.

General Leonard Wood and President Barrows were also quoted as believers in Christian leadership to save the world.

"I believe," said Dr. Van Horn, "that the supreme challenge and the supreme privilege to the young man of today to be of use and value in the world is in the ministry.

"This I state in the face of the fact that the president of the American Medical association says the world needs 200,000 volunteers for the profession of healing, and the fact that 250,000 schools were closed last year for lack of teachers.

"The need for young men and women to devote their lives to the saving of souls and the regeneration of the world, is even greater than these."

The closing words of Paul C. Brown were a plea for decisions for a life devoted to the ministry. Between 15 and 20 responded to the plea.

A vocal solo by Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts was a much enjoyed feature of the evening.

GLENDALE TEAM DO GOOD SHOOTING

With two members of the local company placed on the rifle team that will represent the state at the national rifle competition to be held at Camp Perry in September, Glendale people have just reason to be proud of the prominence that has come to this city through their efforts, in the opinion of Capt. Thomas D. Watson and other officers of the Guard who are high in the praises of the five men that made up the local team.

A telegram this morning from Leona Heights, where the range on which the men shot is located, shows that Sergeant W. R. Jackson placed third and Anthony L. Miller thirteenth. These two men become members of the state rifle team in qualifying in these positions. Remaining in the running almost up to the final round were Earl R. Smith, Willard Downs and John R. Miedema, who stood in the respective positions, 21st, 24th and 45th. Smith and Miedema were nosed out only in the final elimination after having made a strong bid for the team from the first.

The team that will represent the state on the Camp Perry, O., range in September will be composed of 18 riflemen and a captain.

THURSDAY CLUB ENJOYS PICNIC

The Thursday Afternoon club, which is one of the oldest organizations in the southern part of the city, and which is now concentrating on civic matters, had a purely social meeting and picnic at La Ramada last Friday which was attended by about 36 members and friends and which was a highly successful affair. Mmes. Doggett, Blair and Server constituted the committee of arrangements.

ELECTION RETURNS BY DAILY PRESS

The Glendale Daily Press has arranged to show election returns by stereopticon. Bulletins will be shown on a large building and facing Brand boulevard. Be our guests and watch the returns come in. Results will be given as fast as obtainable.

WILL SAVE THOUSANDS OF STEPS

During the hot days of the summer every housewife owes it to herself to save all of her energy and strength possible. By using some of the numerous labor-saving devices which are displayed at the Jewel Electric Company of 202 East Broadway, one may save untold time and strength. For instance, a vacuum cleaner will save thousands of steps every day, for the up-to-the-minute housekeeper. And, besides, one's rugs will give much better service than when treated with the old-fashioned beating process. Then there's the dusting! Special brushes may also be obtained from the Jewel Electric Company which will simplify the dusting problem, by just running the cleaner lightly over the article to be dusted. The electric way is not only much easier but much more sanitary! With the broom, one never could quite remove all of the dust that might be raised, but now, well, there simply "isn't any such animule" as dust! Just try it once and you'll never be without an electric vacuum in your home. The Jewel Electric Company carry several different styles and will gladly give you a free demonstration, so that you may see for yourself the wonders of the electrical age.

HOW WE ALL MAY HELP

Some people think that only those persons who belong to a humane society, are expected to report cases of cruelty to animals which they see or know about. This is a mistake. Those who are not members, as well as those who are, should notify the nearest humane agent or police officer when they know of the abuse or suffering of any animal.

MOSQUITO-BITE PREVENTIVES

Most mosquito-bite preventives are more or less ineffective because they are volatile and evaporate within a few hours. A mixture in which the vaporation of the oil of citronella, the most commonly used preventive, is greatly retarded, is composed of oil of citronella, 1 oz., and liquid vaseline, 4 oz. A mixture that will also prevent mosquitoes from biting and which contains no oil of citronella, the odor of which is objectionable to some people, is made of castor oil, 1 oz., alcohol, 1 oz., and oil of lavender, 1 oz. A few drops of either preparation rubbed on the hands and face will usually remain effective overnight.

Paste for Mounting Photographs

A good paste for mounting photographs is made by mixing 12 1-2 oz. of white dextrin in 15 oz. of water, and then adding 2 oz. of sugar, 1-2 oz. of powdered alum, and 3-4 oz. of carbolic acid. The ingredients are thoroughly mixed and no lumps remain.

It is interesting to know that the name "Cliff-Laray" has a real meaning—being composed of one syllable of the names of each member of Mrs. Walcott's family. The "Cliff" is an abbreviation of her son's name; "La" for Laura, Mrs. Walcott herself, and "Ray" for Mr. Walcott. These famous creams and powders are on sale right here in her own shop at 136 South Brand boulevard.

PLUMBER SUCCEEDS WHERE SURGEON'S SKILL FAILS!

A short while ago a patient was brought into the Charing Cross hospital, London, pierced from the left shoulder to the right knee by a sharp steel rod, half an inch thick. Strange to say, it had passed all of the vital organs, and the bones and projected through the knee, one of the most unique accidents in history. The surgeons, were, however, unable to do anything with the delicate instruments of their profession. In desperation, someone suggested the hospital plumber! He was sent for and within five minutes he had extracted the bar and the patient's life was miraculously saved! Mr. P. J. Sheehy of the Glendale Plumbing Company of 154 South Orange street claims that his contention that "it pays to keep posted on what your customer needs, though it may mean some hard night studying" is borne out by this article from the New York Herald of April 3. Mr. Sheehy not only understands plumbing thoroughly, but is fully aware of the importance of the industry and therefore does keep himself posted on all of the up-to-date plumbing. Hence he is generally conceded to be the "best informed man in the plumbing business"! It was Mr. Sheehy of the Glendale Plumbing Company who installed the new sanitary plumbing in the beautiful new Glendale sanitarium.

DELICIOUS SALT-RISING BREAD

Just try some of the delicious salt-rising bread from the Fancy Bakery at 142 North Brand boulevard, and a steaming hot cup of coffee, for breakfast, and your day is certain to run smoothly. I'm absolutely satisfied in my own mind that there's none other in the country quite as good as the salt-rising bread which they make at the Fancy Bakery. It is the only real home-made bread that I have ever been able to buy. Just like the kind that "mother used to make"! I really can't describe its wonderful flavor, words fail me, except to say that "it tastes like more" and "lots more," at that! The Fancy Bakery have the most delectable pastries and cakes, which they make right there in their own sanitary shop. It is a pleasure to buy one's bread and pastries from the Fancy Bakery, for there one may be sure that they are made only of the purest and most wholesome materials. You will enjoy a visit to their plant at 142 North Brand boulevard, and I know that once you have been there you'll never make your purchases anywhere else.

DULL HUES THAT DIFFER RADICALLY

It can be seen in the wallpapers shown today, which differ radically from those of a half a dozen years ago, that dull hues have taken the place of startling colors, and our rooms,, taken as a whole, give one the effect of an absence of color, although they may be quite colorful. It is also very noticeable that the softer tones for backgrounds have become almost universal in the last few years. The Glendale Paint and Paper company of 119 South Brand boulevard, under their new ownership, are displaying the very newest designs in wallpapers. The women of Glendale who have shopped around for their paper and included the Glendale Paint and Paper company in their visits, know that there they may purchase the best wallpaper at the right price! Mr. Hunter is carrying the same patterns in the very self-same materials as those sold by the large firms in the city. BUT—will you believe me—that although they have been purchased from the same wholesale houses, wallpaper is being sold at far less price right here at The Glendale Paint and Paper company!

Rejuvenating Old Floor Rugs

When the floor rug has become so much worn as to show holes, or other signs of decreasing usefulness, it may have its life lengthened by a simple process. Turn the rug upside down, and, after sewing or gluing pieces of burlap over any holes or thin spots, make a paste of common gloss starch thinned to the consistency of paint, and thoroughly saturate the upper surfaces of the rug, brushing it smooth and even. When the starch has dried thoroughly, apply a ground coat of any good floor-graining varnish and when this has hardened,, the second, or graining, coat is applied, followed, when dry, with a coat of floor varnish.

PRESSING CLOTHES PROPERLY

Blue serge and similar hard-finished fabrics, when pressed at home, often show shiny spots and streaks over the seams and pockets due to the fact that the presser is possessed with the idea that the garment must be ironed until dry.

Of course the nature of the fabric must be taken into consideration, but ordinarily a neat job may be obtained by removing the iron and lifting the pressing cloth while the garment is still steaming. This allows the rising steam to lift the nap of the fabric, and, besides eliminating shiny spots, imparts an appearance of freshness to the suit which can be obtained in no other way.

Cordially yours,
MARTHA MALICIA.

PARTICIPATED IN FOUR WARS

Urging the election of Dr. Wm. C. Mabry to the city council because of his service in the United States Army, and participation in four wars, Col. James W. Everington, who retired from the regular army last year, and has made his home since in Glendale, today issued a direct appeal to all ex-service men to stand by their comrade. Col. Everington's letter follows:

"Comrades:—We have been called upon to support one of our number in his campaign for public office. Fair enough. He is one of us, BUT if we are to support him because of his service record, let us be consistent and support all service men whose records in and out of the service warrant such support.

"'Dr. William C. Mabry, who is a candidate for office, is also an ex-service man. His service record has been published by the Glendale Better Council committee. I am writing this letter because some of our number, who do not know the doctor, have questioned the correctness of the statement as published.

"My opinion, I should say, is formed from long acquaintance. I have known "Doc" for about 20 years, we having first served together as lieutenants on duty with the Third Infantry, United States Army, consequently I feel somewhat qualified to pass on the doctor's service record as published by the Better Council Campaign committee. The only comment I would make in vouching for the correctness of the record as published is to say that it did not half tell the tale.

"Dr. Mabry's military career may be said to have started early, as his great-great-grandfather served as a major in the Revolutionary army, his great-grandfather in the War of 1812, his grandfather in the Mexican War and his father, four of his father's brothers and five of his mother's brothers, in the Civil War. The doctor entered the service as an enlisted man in '98, won his promotion, and served with distinction in many campaigns and engagements, having heard and felt more hostile bullets than many of us who are now wearing service stripes and buttons.

"If any of the ex-service candidates are entitled to our support on the strength of their service records, the record of a man who has given the best of his life to the service, as Dr. Mabry has, entitles him to our best efforts.

"The stick-to-it-iveness, the bulldog determination, which enabled Dr. Mabry to swim rain-swollen tropical torrents and travel miles of flooded jungle, alone, at night, in the heart of the enemy's countryy, to secucre aid for his command, in the Philippines, and which sustained him in the awful fights against cholera in the tropics and the "flu" in the big camps in this country, will get him what he goes after in the city council, if you elect him. His many years of experience as an executive in the army and in civil life have given him a broader outlolok upon life than that of the average professional man and fits him for the position which his friends have now induced him to seek.

"As an exponent of fair play, I solicit your support for our comrade, William C. Mabry, the best all-around man in the race.

"JAMES EVERINGTON, a Service Man."

Fought flu and meningitis, the great scourges in the World War—cared for over 600 of your boys with pneumonia at Camp Lewis.

Will fight for the welfare of Glendale as Councilman.

Religious Combinations Are Dangerous

Editor Glendale Press: Analyzing the purposes animating the Glendale Better Council Campaign Committee, and uttering both a declaration of faith and a solemn warning against tampering with the same laws which have to date guaranteed and stimulated Glendale's prosperity, Attorney Kemper Campbell of 1412 South Brand boulevard, today issued an eloquent appeal to Glendale voters.

"There is no denial that leaders in the Municipal League movement sent a congratulatory message to their colleagues in Pomona, when that city recently enacted Sunday closing legislation. The question naturally arises in the mind of the thoughtful voter—'Why do these men approve for Pomona what they would not want or seek in Glendale if they had the power to do so?'

"Three gentlemen of the cloth, who have taken an active part in the local politics have, in written letters to their congregations, in sermons from their pulpits, and in their utterances in the press and in public places, shown a marked desire to restrict by harsh and unnecessary regulatory measures, the present orderly and prosperous conduct of business in Glendale on Sundays. The denial of these gentlemen that they contemplate Blue Laws and fanatical legislation is honestly based on a difference of opinion as to the meaning of such words.

The Rev. Harry L. Bowlby, national secretary of the so-called "Blue Law Group," says: 'We propose to pass no Blue Laws. There are no such things as Blue Laws—never were. We shall try to close the motion picture and other theaters, the bathing beaches; we shall fight all amusements, we shall oppose outdoor athletic sports, even if purely amateur; we shall seek to restrict the sale of gasoline for automobiles; we shall oppose excursion steamer rides on Sundays. Jews, and those other religious sects, will have to observe our Sabbath. I see no reason why public libraries or the art galleries should remain open on Sunday. We shall seek to eliminate Sunday newspapers and establish a censorship over the stuff that gets into them on other days. We propose to close all stores, and we have ample financial resources.'

"Does this statement of November 28, 1920, convince thinking men that no such thing as Blue Laws exist:

"The Better Council Committee believes that a social, moral and economic injustice will be done to growing Glendale and its people if a small group is given power to tinker with existing ordinances under which the city has grown and thrived. They proceed on the principle expressed by the Honorable Richard M. Johnson in American State Papers, Class 7, Page 225:

" 'Religious combinations to effect a political object are always dangerous. Effort of this kind calls for the establishment of a principle which would lay the foundation for dangerous innovations upon the spirit of the constitution and upon the religious rights of the citizens. All religious despotism commences by combination and influence, and when that influence begins to operate upon the political institutions, the civil power soon bends under it; and the catastrophe of other nations furnishes an awful warning of the consequences.'

"To those who seek to make that despised German injunction 'verboten' a part of the language of our valley citizens, may I say that we who love Glendale and are proud of her progress, and happy to be numbered among her citizens, that we feel that Sunday closing will be repellant to home-seekers, cause evasion of the law, drive liberty-loving citizens out of their home city on the Sabbath, give professional reformers a chance to rule and ruin, cause espionage and work a severe economic injustice on our merchants. The chamber of commerce has a list of 534 lawful businesses being conducted within the corporate limits of Glendale today. On Sundays, because of the interests of life, 203 of these businesses, in order to answer the needs of the people, and not specifically and particularly for gain, render the service which during the week is admittedly lawful, and on Sunday often becomes requisite. Sunday closing legislation will brand these 203 business men as criminals.

"It is for such civic reasons that the Better Council Committee is at variance with the aims and candidacy of the Municipal League ticket. Our opposition to two of the so-called Good Government League candidates is well known as being based on the cemetery issue. Modern laws of municipal sanitation decry attempts to place cemeteries in close proximity with the homes of the people. South Glendale has won the cooperation and warm support of all parts of our city, by its protest against the expansion of the Forest Lawn Cemetery inside the corporate limits of the city. There is land outside the city which can be acquired for this purpose, and the injustice of the proposed expansion and which still remains a live issue in the minds of certain of the Good Government candidates is generally admitted.

"The members of the Better Council Campaign Committee believe in, and its candidates are pledged to maintain decency, quiet, law and order. We do not believe in the disturbance of Sunday worship. We do believe in pursuing the peaceful, cordial attitude heretofore evidenced by one religion toward another. We believe in the constitutional privileges for religious freedom, and we are confident, because of the assurances made to us that this represents the view of the great majority of church members, business men, and property owners, whose hearty cooperation at the polls we earnestly invite."

KEMPER CAMPBELL.

Tribute to Mrs. Bartlett

"Editor Glendale Press:—As a Glendale woman, I cannot refrain from a last word about one of the candidates whom I feel should be considered without regard to party. I refer to Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, who represents the womanhood of the city on our city council and does it in a manner which should make every voter and especially every woman voter, proud and thankful that the choice fell upon one so wise and sane, so dignified, so sympathetic to the best interests of her constituents as well as to the best interests of the city, in the abstract.

"Mrs. Bartlett's record as acting chairman of the Glendale chapter of the Red Cross during the trying months of the war, her untiring but self-effacing service there, augmented the respect she had inspired in the community and among the women who had been closely associated with her during her administration as president of the Tuesday Afternoon Club.

"It should ever be remembered that at least 50 per cent of Glendale's voting population are women. It not infrequently happens that one of these voters has occasion to address the council to ask some favor or to protest against some matter that adversely affects her interests. The fact that a woman like Mrs. Bartlett is on the board makes it far easier for such an applicant to register a plea or a protest than it would be if she were to face a body made up entirely of men.

"Whenever there is a big issue to carry by ballot, or an important celebration, or other event in prospect, an immediate appeal is made to women's organizations, a challenge to their public spirit and citizenship. We must see that these women, so ready and generous in their response whenever called, are not only not robbed of proper official representation in the city government but that Mrs. Bartlett receives a vote that will demonstrate the chivalry and fair-mindedness of the male voters of Glendale.

"I have been attending meetings of boards of city trustees in Glendale and other cities for a number of years and felt especial interest in watching the effect of a woman's influence upon such a body. After the most critical observation I have only words of praise for the wisdom and intelligence she has displayed with regard to city affairs, the disinterested, unbiased judgment she has exercised, and the gentle but none the less effective manner in which she has recalled members to the real business in hand when they showed a tendency to wander afield. No other trustee commands a larger meed of respect from fellow members.

"From personal observation and from the talks I have had with Trustee Bartlett, I know she stands for the best interests of the community, that she has no personal political ambitions, that she is a servant of no political clique nor party. While she is devoted to the welfare of the city in which she has spent so many years, and in which she expects to spend many more, she is not an advocate of drastic policies of any sort nor a follower of isms. In other words, she is a good, sane, average, representative citizen who should be returned to the city council by an overwhelming vote.

"EMILY GERTRUDE GIBBS."

CHICAGO, June 27.—Twelve of the eighteen men indicted on charges of "throwing" the 1919 world's series between the Chicago White Sox and the Cincinnati Reds, went on trial today before Judge Hugo Friend. The six absentees were considered the most important of the lot, for among them is believed to lie the key to the whole alleged frame-up which resulted in the debauching of the White Sox players.

VOTE FOR

C. E. KIMLIN

ELECTION JUNE 28th

TOMORROW IS ELECTION DAY

Each candidate for office in the city of Glendale has been requested to write a short article about his candidacy, which this newspaper gladly publishes. The names have been drawn and each story placed in the order indicated.

W. B. Kirk

Editor Glendale Press: I take it that the voters of Glendale do not care much about the fact that I am 54 years old and came to California from Lincoln, Neb., 17 years ago, but they are interested in knowing how long I have lived in Glendale and what kind of a citizen I have been during that time, in order that they may form some idea of my worthiness and fitness for the job of councilman—so—I have this to say:

I believe we have always had reasonably good (some excellent) men on the board, and don't believe there has ever been a particle of graft or dishonesty in it. Consequentiy, as it is a hard, thankless job, I have always tried to support them. I have worked at elections of all kinds—especially bond elections, and, I believe, more than any other man, was instrumental in helping to annex the Verdugo canyon section.

I was secretary of the chamber of commerce in 1913 when we increased the membership from about 100 to nearly 500. I have become very much attached to the town. With my wife and daughter I have always lived at 504 East Broadway. Owning the 100 feet at Jackson and Broadway I am naturally interested in the business and growth of Glendale—in the sewer problem, water problem, economy of administration and every other matter which concerns us all.

To me, my election will mean only added responsibility and hard work. If you think I can be of service, vote for me. Your verdict will be final with me.

W. B. KIRK.

Mrs. Ann P. Barflett

Conforming to the prevailing custom, I respectfully submit the following statement for the consideration of the public:

I have been a resident of Glendale for 13 years, and watching its wonderful growth, I have confidence it will continue. We are expanding in many directions very rapidly—new needs are constantly arising and as far as consistent with our growth and development, I favor a progressive and economical administration of city affairs. Possibly many questions will arise in the future that we cannot now foresee.

I am not pledged to any denomination nor organization, but, believing that the trustees should endeavor to carry out the wishes of the people, I will at all times strive to do so.

For the past year I have had the honor of serving as city trustee.

ANN P. BARTLETT.

Charles H. Muhleman

June 27, 1921.

Editor Glendale Press:

Complying with your request, on the eve of election, for a short statement from me, I will repeat in substance what I have publicly stated before—that if elected I will give to the city's affairs my best efforts and judgment, unhampered and unfettered by any pre-election pledges or promises,

Whether elected or not, the satisfaction that comes to one from a campaign free from misstatements and abuse will have been mine.

If not one of those chosen, then who ever is chosen can count on my hearty support and cooperation in every movement and undertaking that will make for the good, honor, and glory of Glendale.

CHAS. H. MUHLEMAN.

Howard W. Walker

To the Voters of Glendale:

In allowing my name to be placed in nomination for election to the City Council, I did so unpledged in any way, shape or manner, other than if elected to serve the City of Glendale, using my best business judgment, and at all times carrying out the will of the people.

A false issue has been raised by certain parties as the "Sunday Blue Laws." In that respect, I will state I am for the proper observance of Sunday as it is observed at the present time. It goes without question that a successful business man is not "fanatical," but would be guided in all questions of vital importance by the will of the people.

I have no personal ill feeling towards any of the candidates and whatever the result of the coming election may be will render the new council my entire support.

HOWARD W. WALKER.

H. W. Yarick

Editor Glendale Press: When I concluded to enter the race for the office of councilman, I did so with the desire that my campaign should be conducted along sane, businesslike lines, and with the resolution that I would not be swayed nor frightened from a straightforward course by "political fireworks."

The facts in connection with the campaign in behalf of myself and the other candidates endorsed by the Municipal League and Federated Brotherhood, have been so ably and fully presented to the voters, that there is little left for me to add at this time.

I may repeat, however, that if elected, I will be free to serve the people to the best of my ability, giving every section of the city a square deal.

H. W. YARICK.

C. E. Kimlin

Editor Glendale Press,

Dear Sir: In response to your inquiry, would state that I have been a resident of Glendale for the past eight years. I am a native of Colorado, and for a number of years was connected with the Battle Creek Sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich. Have also engaged in the real estate business, and for the past five and one-half years have been business manager of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

I believe that no section of the city should be favored more than another in city government and no department of the city government be favored over another. If elected I shall endeavor to see that fair play is assured to all. Yours very truly,

CLARENCE E. KIMLIN.

Executives Meet

The annual meeting of the state executive committee of the California Christian Endeavor Union was held in the Baptist church at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The session was in charge of B. Irvin Valentine, president, and all state officers were present. The finishing of the year's work, convention arrangements and other routine business constituted the work of the meeting.

Architect C. C. Rittenhouse of 1317 Walnut has completed plans for a new building at Cypress avenue and Merced street, Los Angeles, for the Cypress Park Presbyterian congregation. The auditorium and gallery will seat 400. There will be a parlor, pastor's study, and 11 class rooms. The building will be 72 by 72 and of frame construction.

Prayer Service

As an appropriate prelude to the convention, a group of Christian Endeavorers met at the Central Christian church on Saturday afternoon for a prayer service for the success of the convention.

This service was led by Miss Hancie Naylor, Quiet Hour superintendent of the state union, and was well attended. At its close, delegates studied their programs to decide which of the many sessions they would attend, got acquainted with each other and explored the city a bit, in order that they might easily find their way to and from their places of entertainment.

Good Government League Tells Why It Entered the Campaign

Sunday Legislation, a Nation-Wide Movement

Dr. Harry L. Bowlby, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of America and also general secretary of the Presbyterian committee on Sabbath observance, who gave in his annual report to the General Assembly held in Winona Lake, Ind., in May, is quoted as follows:

(From the Philadelphia Public Ledger, November 28, 1920.)

"We are well financed. Our lobby at Washington will be an effective and experienced one. We shall work in every Congressional district in every state. We shall agitate and spread propaganda, and cause voters to write unceasingly to their representativevs in Congress until no Congressman who cares to stay in Congress will dare refuse to vote for our measures. These were the methods used by the Anti-Saloon League and they were effective.

"We propose to pass no blue laws. There are no such things as blue laws—never were. And we don't propose to legislate people into church. We propose, by legislation, to make it easier for people to go to church. In other words, we shall try to close the baseball parks, the golf links, the motion picture and other theaters, the concert halls, the amusement parks, the bathing beaches and so on. We shall fight all amusements where an admission fee is charged. We shall oppose golf, tennis, baseball, football, and other sports, even if purely amateur and void of financial cost to those watching or taking part, because they set bad examples for children who otherwise might be content to go to Sunday school.

"We shall seek to restrict the sale of gasoline for pleasure automobiles, and urge other measures that will stop Sunday automobiling and joy riding. This will not bring the old-fashioned horse and buggy back, because we believe that the Lord's day should be a day of rest for man and beast. Excursion steamer rides on Sunday will be opposed by us on the ground that they are unnecessary to the moral welfare of Christian America."

"How many churches are behind this movement?" the reporter asked.

"Sixteen denominations," he replied. "Really, we have seventeen, for while the Lutheran Synod did not indorse this movement officially, the Lutherans are with us. Only the Roman Catholics, the Unitarians, the Seventh-Day Adventists and the Jews are outside this movement. And to be perfectly frank with you, they will have to conform to the laws if we succeed. The Jew will have to observe our Sabbath. As a matter of fact, he might as well, because Saturday is not, after all, his Sabbath. He is wrong by the revised calendar. Therefore, it will work no hardship for him to attend his synagogue on the same day we attend our churches.

"No, I see no reason why the public libraries or the art galleries should remain open on Sunday. We shall seek to eliminate the huge Sunday newspapers, and establish a censorship over the stuff that gets into them on other days . . . .

"Of course, we shall back no law that would compel a man or woman to attend church. But we believe that if we take away a man's motor car, his golf sticks, his Sunday newspaper, his horses, his pleasure steamships, amusement houses, and parks, and prohibit him from playing outdoor games or witnessing field sports, he naturally will drift back to church."

To show that this puritanical spirit has not changed since last November, the following is given from Dr. Bowlby's report to the Presbyterian General Assembly at Winona Lake, May 21:

Go to Church Urged.

"The committee believes that 'go-to-church Sundays' are good and helpful, but that there would be no urgent need of them if we had a proper observance of the Lord's Day. If the people properly observe the Sabbath they will be found in the house of God on that day.

"Remove these counter-attractions and distractions of the day and it will prove a far easier matter to woo and win back a multitude of young people who have lost the way to the Bible school and the church. Close up the Sunday movie and theater, shut the gates of the baseball parks, lock the doors of the many open places of business, make more attractive, but none the less spiritual, the meetings of the church, and this paramount problem of the churches will be well on the way to a definite and effective solution."

To show it is not all a joke, this news reprint is submitted, dated May 22:

"On Saturday the assembly voted unanimously in favor of a concerted effort for stricter enforcement of the blue laws and religious observance of the Sabbath. Today they had an opportunity to witness a literal application of the blue laws. Ever since Winona was founded, twenty-five years ago, blue laws have been rigidly enforced. Local regulations forbid Sunday bathing, boating, fishing and other sports. Ice cream parlors, candy and cigar stores, are closed, and even the sale of Sunday newspapers is prohibited on the grounds."

Do the people of Glendale want these conditions to prevail in the finest city the sun e'er shone on?

It will be noted that our ministers emphatically disclaim any proposed enactment of "Blue Laws." So does Mr. Bowlby, who says: "We propose to pass no blue laws. There are no such things as blue laws—never were." What perfidy! And is it here we find the "joker"? Is this the card our ministerial friends have "up their sleeves"? Is this the reason for their non-committal evasiveness?

> "I would just as soon believe the perfume of the rose comes from a polecat as to believe that the spirit of the blue laws comes from God.
> "'Close every other door except the churches,' cries the reformer, forgetting that open HEARTS are greater inducements than closed doors."—Rev. J. D. Jones, Huntington Park.

The League has always spoken of a "Sunday Closing" issue, not "Blue Laws," but at this time the terms will be used synonymously.

The national issue is out in the open—arrogant. The local connection is denied by pastors and others, but it will be here made plain that the desire exists, and the League believes that given proper conditions, action would follow.

That a sympathetic city council would supply the proper conditions, is believed by the League to be the underlying reason for the Brotherhood's eagerness to elect such a one.

THE LOCAL ISSUE

(From sermon by Rev. C. A. Cole, June 5.)

"Our city is as nearly ideal as any in the country. Of course, there are many things that many of us would have different, but we are not going to resort to subterfuge or personal compulsion to bring them about, nor do we propose any Sunday laws."

Now, that sounds right, but listen: * * *

"I believe that an American community should also see that commercialized amusement should not compete at the hour of worship with the greatest institution in the nation—the church—and it ought not to be countenanced."

Are you not slightly contradicting yourself, and would it not be Sunday legislation to prevent it, Brother Cole?

TWO LETTERS BY THE REV. W. E. EDMONDS:

Seriously, Mr. Editor, there are no "blue laws" contemplated by any minister of the gospel or the Ministerial Association of Glendale, and the ten members of this association are ready and willing to meet any ten citizens of Glendale whom any organization may select, and ask these twenty men to sit as jury, and if they find any "blue laws," or any plan looking toward such a move, we will sign a name to a statement giving in detail just what is proposed. Will any organization accept the challenge?

Brother Cole, you are right. No city can prosper and build up on a foundation of lies. The people are wise. You can't fool all the people all the time. Let us adhere to the injunction of the "Good Book": "Speak ye every man the truth with his neighbor."

Dwight W. Stephenson

Editor Glendale Press:

Dear Sir.—In compliance with your kind request, beg to state that I am a native of Illinois and have lived in Glendale since boyhood. Am a graduate of the Glendale city schools and the Glendale Union High School and received my professional education in the U. S. C. College of Law. Am a member of the law firm of Jones, Wilson and Stephenson.

I was elected to the board of trustees of the city of Glendale in April, 1920, and at present have the honor of acting as chairman of that body. My fraternal affiliations embrace the Masonic orders and the American Legion.

It is my earnest wish and desire that our city continue in the high place it has won among the municipalities of California and if returned to office will do all in my power to accomplish that end.

Yours very truly,
DWIGHT W. STEPHENSON.

A. H. Lapham

A. B. Lapham, candidate for city councilman, is a member of the present board of trustees, having been appointed to fill a vacancy last January. He is a native of Illinois, 41 years of age, married, has one son, owns his home and resides at 415 West Broadway. He also has other property interests here; has an orchard at Little Rock in the northern part of the county and is a member of the Antelope Valley Pear Growers Cooperative Association. He has been a resident of Glendale for the past five years and before coming here resided at San Bernardino and Los Angeles. He has been a resident of California for 18 years. He is a 32d degree Mason and also belongs to the local lodge of Elks. He is now employed in the offices of the mechanical department of the Santa Fe railway and has been with that company for a number of years.

A. H. LAPHAM.

A. J. Van Wie

On the eve of election I feel justified in asserting that my diligent canvass of the city has won for me a victory at the polls for the office of city clerk.

During the past month I have rung the door bell of practically every house inside the city limits of Glendale. In most cases that ring has been answered and I have presented my ambition in a way and have received sufficient encouragement to lead me to believe and state that I will not be forgotten at the polls. Thus the above statements as to my confidence for victory.

Aside from my personal canvass, the many friends and acquaintances who have so cheerfully offered their support and influence and who have proved themselves friends indeed, I feel gratified will add considerable weight to my victory.

The several candidates for the office of city clerk have not allied or have they been asked to ally themselves to any faction for endorsement. This fact has left them all open to campaign entirely upon their own initiative, stating their own qualifications and capabilities without fear or favor. To the voter the man himself stands out alone as being able to efficiently serve the city in the capacity of city clerk.

I have endeavored during my campaign to acquaint the people with my own capabilities and desires, not to tear down the inefficiencies of the others or to even hint that inefficiency might be found in them. I firmly believe that this is the only true way to gain.

My record is open. To many I am well known. My contract with the public during my three years and a half in the city hall has been the most pleasant and I can assure the public that such conditions will exist if I am placed in the city clerk's office. Those with whom I came in contact during those years will testify to my fairness and upright dealings. City hall records will reveal nothing to my discredit, rather to my credit. My steady rise in the city hall and the efficient and ready way in which I performed each duty assigned to me is open for the strictest inspection. When I left the employ of the city last March it was with the regret of all officials, and their best wishes for success in any other undertaking that I might enter.

I am capable of filling the position of city clerk. I can make good.

Robert M. McGee

Independent candidate for member of city council, native of Illinois, 12 years a resident of Glendale. Occupation, merchant, formerly a teacher in the public schools of Illinois. A member of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Independent Order of Odd Fellows and N. P. Banks Camp, Sons of Veterans.

In the present campaign is entirely independent of any league or faction. I am a firm believer in the great future and possibilities of our city and will do every thing in my power to promote its growth. If elected will give the city business the same careful attention that I do my own.

Respectfully,
R. M. McGEE.

Guy F. Maxwell

I was brought here as a small child, 34 years ago and have resided on Park and Central avenues, known to the pioneers as the Maxwell place.

After graduating from Throop Tech. (now Cal. Tech.) and the Vander Naillen School of Mines, I was instructor in that institution for two years. Since then have been employed as consulting chemist and smelter chemist and at one time served two years in the Tropico city engineer's office.

I offer as qualifications education and experience, executive ability and efficient methods.

GUY F. MAXWELL.

Charles Grist

Editor Glendale Press:

Dear Sir.—In availing myself of your columns I would say that I came to Glendale in 1905 and am a native of Tennessee. I have had the honor of serving the city of Glendale as trustee from the years of 1914 to 1918, during which time my efforts were largely directed toward the upbuilding of the fire and police departments and not without a large degree of success. I have consistently worked for and supported measures looking toward the betterment of the municipal lighting plant, water bonds and other civic matters.

I am a member of the B. P. O. Elks, the Knights of Pythias and American Yeomen, and am connected with the Juvenile Department of the District Attorney's office. Am offering my services to the people of Glendale with the belief that my experience and knowledge of the city's needs and requirements will prove valuable at this crucial time.

Yours very truly,
CHARLES GRIST.

Charles H. Henry

Editor Glendale Press:

Dear Sir.—I have been a resident of Glendale for over 13 years and for more than seven years have served as trustee on the Tropico and Glendale boards. Since coming to Glendale I have been engaged in the real estate and investment business; prior to that time a rancher and cattleman in Texas and engaged in transportation work in Arizona, Nevada and California. I belong to the B. P. O. Elks and other fraternal orders in Glendale.

My record is an open book. I have never been tied on to any "ticket," "league" nor faction to be elected and if the people see fit to return me to office as councilman the only "load" I shall carry into the city hall will be the responsibility of the position and the determination to do the right thing by all of the people as I see it.

Yours very truly,
CHARLES H. HENRY.

Samuel A. Davis

I would have liked to met every voter face to face, but as this was impossible I am submitting that fact to you, not that I am in any way proud of it, but it is the only one I have. I never have "two faces." One is all I care for, either in a heated campaign or in business dealings.

Many organizations and individuals have been talking for me. I certainly appreciate what they have said, but there comes a time when every man should talk to the voter himself.

First and above all I am for a sewer in the business district. Then the building of a comfort station. These are two outstanding necessities. I believe in full publicity of public business, and doing what the people want.

If I am elected my ambition is to be one of five to help establish under our new charter a firm, forward looking, economical business administration, one that will give the confidence of all the people. If the above is accomplished it will be long remembered after minor issues have been forgotten. On these grounds and in sincerity and fairness to all, I solicit your vote.

Very truly yours,
SAMUEL A. DAVIS.

J. C. Sherer

J. C. Sherer, candidate for reelection as City Clerk, is one of the pioneers of Glendale, having come to this valley as a matter of fact before Glendale was in existence. During all the years of his residence here he has been active in public affairs, playing among other parts that of school trustee, organizer (with others) and director of wafer companies, cashier of Glendale's first bank, the city's first treasurer and for six years publisher of a weekly newspaper. His unusual knowledge of city affairs and the history of its various enterprises, has given him an unique advantage in managing the affairs of the clerk's office, which he has done with general satisfaction to the public. He was elected for a four-year term in April, 1920, and did not, he says, expect to again run for office, but the adoption of the charter cut his term short and made it necessary for him to again become a candidate.

J. C. SHERER.

Dr. W. Mabry

Editor Daily Pres: In concluding the campaign for councilman I can only emphasize the fact that I believe in conducting the affairs of our city on an efficient and economical basis, securing and retaining only necessary employes, each directly qualified for the position to be filled, providing essentials in keeping with the rapid growth of Glendale so far as possible and consistent with our assets, postponing luxuries and forced improvements until financial strain is removed and administering civic affairs with impartial justice and common sense, without fear or favor and as a public trust without addition or reservations.

Dear Friend—By unanimous action of the Session at a regular meeting on Monday, June 13th, every voter in the congregation is urged to consider certain facts relative to the coming election for City Trustees, and this letter was ordered sent to every voter.

Sooner or later in the life of every individual and every community there comes a crisis in morals, a serious question of right or wrong.

As stated by our pastor in a recent article in the Glendale Press, also in a sermon by the Rev. C. A. Cole, there is in Glendale at present a campaign of lies which is so outstanding that no self-respecting individual can let them pass unchallenged, and if this clean city is to remain clean we must not experiment in the selection of City Trustees.

This is a church town and the growth and development is due in a very large measure to the clean, wholesome atmosphere which the churches have jealously guarded. We have persistently fought the public pool hall and shall continue to do so. Even the Los Angeles papers condemn this institution.

The pastors of our church, backed up by the Session, are urging you and every voter whom you can influence to go to the polls WITHOUT FAIL on Tuesday, June 28th, and vote the entire ticket suggested by the Federated Brotherhood representing the Protestant forces of Glendale. We are defeated if we scratch the ticket. There are other good men not on this ticket, but only five can be elected, hence the Brotherhood was very careful and took plenty of time to select those who in their judgment would represent and work for the best interests of our city.

Please lay aside every personal preference you may have for the sake of unity and victory. We simply must elect this ticket. Do all you can for the protection of our homes and the glory of God.

BY ORDER OF THE SESSION,

W. E. EDMONDS, Pastor

Now, can you, intelligent voter of Glendale, distinguish any particular "crisis in morals" in our city? Can you see any unusual reason to rush to the "Protection of Our Homes"? Can you see just how the election of the Brotherhood's ticket will add to the "Glory of God"?

"There is a way to make the church the super-attraction, but it will never be done by coercing the conscience of men—Christ whipped men out of the church, but never into it."
Rev. J. D. Jones, Huntington Park

NOTE—The League has consistently avoided casting aspersions on any candidate, preferring to lose rather than lower its standard. It now only refers to individuals as a necessary means toward justification for the stand it has taken and proof of its contentions.

Municipal League Candidates Still Dodge Sunday Closing Puritanism, Corporation Control, Cemetery Extension and Nepotism

4 LIVE ISSUES FACED BY VOTERS

Four important issues face every Glendale voter who goes to the polling places tomorrow, and the candidates on the three tickets cannot divorce themselves from these important problems in the city's administration.

THE SUNDAY CLOSING QUESTION:

After a determined effort on the part of the Better Council Campaign Committee to "smoke out" the Municipal League quintet on this topic and solve the riddle of mysterious, whispered conferences held behind closed doors, an evasive reply that no "Blue Laws or fanatical legislation was contemplated" was all that could be secured.

In the face of the fact that the inspired(?) leader of the Blues—Rev. Bowlby—declares that "there is no such thing as blue laws," and, at the same time, solemnly avers that theatres, gasoline, outdoor exercise, and ocean bathing must cease on Sunday and that worshipers of every sect must keep Sunday as Sabbath, the difference seems to be merely in words, not in motives.

The Peterman affidavit, a bomb under the hopes of the Goo-Goo group, definitely places the blame of the cemetery scandal where it belongs and should assure Stephenson's burial under an avalanche of hostile ballots. All Glendale is in sympathy with the South End in decrying the extension of the graveyard into the residential section.

Corporation control, the inspiration of the Goo-Goos, will be swatted by the voters, who see the sting in this iniquitous plot.

Nepotism (placing relatives on the city payroll) is doomed. Fair-minded Americans see the danger in letting whole families have an opportunity to grasp at the city's funds.

Sane, conservative voters will take no chances when candidates who are pledged to purify Glendale politics are on the ballot.

That Float

Graphically calling to the attention of the voters some of the real issues, a decorated float, resembling a cemetery, paraded the streets today.

On the imitation headstones were the names of those who, in the past year, have been missed. Their names are:

Economy
Efficiency
A. Square Deal
Minnie Mum Tax

And now, that Religious Freedom has sickened with fear of what the Municipal League will do if they ever get a chance to put the shackles on Glendale's contented people, another marker might have to be made.

Aside from the humor of the exhibit, which had a wide appeal, there is a deeper significance.

Voters found it easy to remember how nearly the cemetery extension scheme was slipped over and what a vigorous protest had to be made to postpone the plan of the President of the Council.

They also paused to picture how like a graveyard Glendale would be if Sunday closing made its inroads into this peaceful and law-abiding municipality.

Danger of Favoritism to Public Utility Corporations and Consequent Higher Cost of Necessities Given as Reason For Repudiation of Clique

A bitter pill for the Good Government League (so-called) to swallow was prescribed this morning, when the resignations of 18 of the original 50 members of that wobbling organization, unable to endure longer the odium of corporation association, resigned in a body and pledged themselves to vote the straight ticket of the Better Council Committee.

The political bombshell follows:

DRU NICOLES—Wire chief, Telephone Company and President so-called Good Government League.

W. R. PHELON—Local manager, Southern California Gas Co., and Vice-President Good Government League.

H. P. COURTNEY—Outside superintendent, Gas Company, and Financial Secretary Good Government League.

J. D. HULL—Secretary Good Government League.

Gentlemen:

Having reason to believe that your so-called Good Government League was organized for the principal purpose of reelecting a majority of the present incumbents, and feeling that your organization numbers among its leading spirits too many representatives of public utility corporations, "which they so creditably serve," we hereby tender our resignations therefrom.

Yours truly,

MRS. A. L. BANCROFT	W. R. BLAIR	S. M. STREET
MRS. E. V. BACON	MRS. W. R. BLAIR	MRS. S. M. STREET
A. E. BRADSHAW	ROY NEAL	AL. VALET

MRS. OLLIE LARKIN	KEMPER CAMPBELL	MRS. L. L. BERSTEIN
A. A. McDONALD	W. E. ANDERSON	L. C. DENMAN

Ex-Service Men Endorse Their Friend Mabry

Veterans of all wars are rallying to the standard of their comrade, Dr. William C. Mabry, candidate for election on the Better Council ticket, as demonstrated elsewhere in this paper.

Few men have seen so much service as this unassuming citizen of Glendale. Serving his country in four campaigns—Spanish-American War, Boxer Rebellion, Philippine Insurrection and World War—he has spent years in attending America's soldiers whose patriotism called for sacrifice.

In civil life Dr. Mabry has shown the same loyalty to city, state and nation. In administrative and executive positions his skill and courtesy have endeared him to neighbors and associates.

Municipal sanitation, a problem in every growing city, will have the attention of a recognized expert when Dr. Mabry is elected.

Glendale voters indicate that they realize that by voting for Dr. Mabry they are assuring a valued official asset to the city's future government.

Peterman Affidavit Another Hard Blow at Stephenson's Evasions

Placing the blame for the introduction of the discredited cemetery extension ordinance squarely at the door of D. W. Stephenson, and dramatically exposing the heavy disguise of mystery which surrounded this private fiasco, Russell W. Peterman, Glendale property owner and business man, has made a sworn affidavit revealing the truth behind this attempt to gold-brick the entire city.

Mr. Peterman's affidavit is printed in full on another pages of this paper. It is the duty of every Glendale voter to read every word of it.

Ask yourself this question:

"Would you want a graveyard across the street from your home?"

Then answer it—and vote accordingly.

Mr. Peterman wrote his statement only after long reflection on his duty as a citizen and after a repeated effort to get Candidate Stephenson to pledge himself to oppose a similar attempted invasion of Glendale in the future, proving that the cemetery question is not a dead issue.

As he says, under oath, Stephenson evaded a direct answer, but gave a strong intimation that he was indifferent and that the outspoken protest of hundreds of indignant citizens little over a month ago had failed to impress him with the gravity of the situation.

Those who joined in the protest, like Mr. Peterman, now realize that Stephenson represents a clique—not a city.

They know the folly of returning to office a man who requires constant watching to prevent the introduction of legislation prejudicial to the public welfare.

They want strong men in office, men who are alert to guard the interests of all the people, who need no watching and who are truly representative. That's why voters will stamp their ballots after the names of the five pledged candidates of the Better Council Committee.

BETTER COUNCIL CANDIDATES CAPABLE

THE GLENDALE BETTER COUNCIL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS THE FOLLOWING CANDIDATES:

WALTER E. ANDERSON, 410 West Los Feliz; age 50 years; resided in Glendale 15 years; garage and auto service business. A substantial, conservative, successful business man and a large taxpayer. He will be interested in economy and efficiency. He is a practical mechanical engineer and his knowledge as such will be of great service to the city. He will bring to the Board a long and successful business experience—a quality now needed in our city government.

S. A. DAVIS, 118 West Colorado; age 46 years; resided in Glendale 9 years; real estate and investments; formerly in feed and fuel business. He has had an active, honorable and successful business career in our midst and he is a man of sane, independent judgment. He is prepared to give a great deal of time and attention to the city's affairs.

C. E. KIMLIN, 219 North Isabel; age 40 years; resided in Glendale 8 years. He is business manager of our most famous institution, the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, known the country over. He is a man of great popularity because of his great ability and never-failing courtesy. He has had 20 years of active and successful business experience. He has been actively interested in civic betterment and humanitarian movements.

WILLIAM C. MABRY, 115 East Acacia avenue; aged 49 years; resided in Glendale approximately 9 years. After his graduation from medical college he served his country in four campaigns: Spanish-American War; Chinese Boxer Expedition; Philippine Insurrection, and the World War. Throughout many years of army service and in civil life he has continuously occupied administrative and executive positions of great responsibility. During his residence in this city he was health officer of Tropico during three administrations and was, for three or four years, president of the Tropico Chamber of Commerce. He also served as superintendent of the Playgrounds Association and installed the Tropico playgrounds. He has been closely identified with every public improvement, including the paving and lighting of Brand boulevard and the acquisition of the water system. Dr. Mabry is a highly educated man and has had unusual training and experience in the field of sanitation, as this was one of his special duties during the many years he served in the army. His knowledge and experience in the field of sanitation alone will not only protect the health of the City of Glendale in the event of the improvement of our water supply and the installation of a sewage disposal plant, but will save the taxpayers thousands if not hundreds of thousands of dollars. Dr. Mabry is a specialist and is not engaged in general practice. As a physician he thoroughly believes in medical freedom under the law. That is, he believes in the right of any individual to choose any method of healing he may desire. During the last nine months he has been in the service as Acting Assistant Surgeon, U. S. Public Health Service, in care of disabled veterans of the World War. All of the disabled veterans under his charge at Thornycroft warmly commend him.

SPENCER ROBINSON, 1234 East Windsor; age 52 years; resided in Glendale 14 years; real estate business. He is a substantial business man, having considerable property in Glendale, and his course as City Trustee has met with the approval of the City of Glendale. He is in a position to give his time and attention to the city's interests.

STEPHENSON SCORED IN AFFIDAVIT ON CEMETERY ISSUE

A new light was thrown on the cemetery controversy Friday morning when Russell W. Peterman, a Glendale property owner and business man, in a startling affidavit, accused Dwight W. Stephenson, candidate for Trustee on the Good Government ticket, with having aided the projected extension of the cemetery over the Glendale city boundaries. The additional charge that Stephenson refused to pledge opposition to such measures in the future, also was made.

The text of Peterman's sworn statement follows:

R. W. Peterman, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

I am a citizen and taxpayer of Glendale and reside at 1625 South Glendale avenue; I am thirty (30) years of age and have a family consisting of a wife and two children. I have lived in Glendale three years. I purchased my home on South Glendale avenue with my life's savings with the intention of making that my permanent home. If I had at that time thought that there was any possibility of the extension of the Forest Lawn cemetery northerly along Glendale avenue I would not have purchased that property.

On May 5, 1921, the cemetery extension ordinance was quietly introduced. I use the word "quietly" advisedly because I have diligently inquired of a large number of residents of Glendale, both near to and far from the cemetery, and I have yet to find any citizens who were notified of the introduction of this ordinance before that time or after that time until the fact of its introduction was accidentally discovered. Dwight W. Stephenson introduced this ordinance. I am informed and believe and, on that ground, state that he did not consult the citizens of Glendale who would be particularly damaged by this extension, nor did he take pains to notify the public generally that this ordinance had been introduced. Stephenson states in his published letter, "The introduction was noted in the minutes of the Board and a copy of the minutes published in both of our local papers." The only notation in the minutes was as follows: "Interment of Dead Bodies. An ordinance was presented regulating the interment of dead bodies of human beings in the City of Glendale and laid over." (Page 697, Minutes of Board of Trustees.) This title gives no intimation of the extension of the cemetery. The text of the ordinance was not published. The real import of this ordinance was discovered by accident the day before it was to come up for final hearing. On Thursday noon, May 12, 1921, I went to the City Hall to make an investigation. The City Clerk was out and I was unable to get access to any records except the minutes of the preceding meeting, which merely referred to the ordinance by its misleading title. I was unable to get a copy of the ordinance. I came back later in the afternoon and was given a copy of the ordinance to read. After reading the ordinance, I asked the City Clerk if he knew what that ordinance meant and pointed out to him that the ordinance provided for an extension of the cemetery up Glendale avenue, and the Clerk stated, "No, it doesn't come to Glendale avenue. It merely takes in the hills farther back." The Clerk was apparently misinformed regarding the purport of this ordinance and I took him to the map and he then conceded that the ordinance did provide for the extension of the cemetery as I had pointed out to him. I have known Dwight W. Stephenson for upwards of three years and even after our protests I heard him state publicly substantially as follows: "I do not see that the extension of the cemetery will injure the school, nor will it hurt anybody's property and personally I am in favor of the ordinance." After the withdrawal of the ordinance I discussed the matter with him. During the course of this conversation Mr. Stephenson said, "Mr. Eaton (of the cemetery company) came to me about six months ago and requested me to introduce this ordinance, so I introduced it." I asked Mr. Stephenson, "Suppose this thing comes up again; what will we do?" To this he made an evasive answer. I then asked him, "Do you suppose this thing will come up again next year?" He replied, "It may. If it does you will just have to fight it."

On Monday, May 16, 1921, Mr. A. H. Lapham said to me, "Pete," he said, "you know you are up against a brick wall down there. Those cemetery people can do as they please, and we can't prevent them." I said, "Well, doesn't the ordinance we have keep them out?" He replied, "That ordinance is no good."

The petitions protesting against the cemetery extension ordinance were circulated throughout all parts of the City of Glendale and were readily signed by citizens living in all parts of the city—North, South, East and West.

From what Mr. Stephenson and Mr. Lapham have both said to me, I do not feel that the people of Glendale can expect proper protection from them against the future extension of this cemetery inside the limits of the City of Glendale.

BANKS ARE ASKED TO BE MORE LIBERAL

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The American farmer must be kept in business on a paying basis. The prosperity of American industry and business depends vitally upon the ability of the farmer to produce his products at a profit. At no time in history has this conviction been as strong as now. Government officials, who direct fiscal policies and exercise control over the banking system agree that agriculture must have its share of bank credit advantages. To this end the credit bars have been lowered, as a partial means of putting the farmer on his feet.

Governor W. P. G. Harding, of the Federal Reserve Board, is keenly alive to the farmers' needs in the present farming crisis. He recognizes that all business has lagged because of depression in agriculture, and the disastrous effects of the price reactions upon the producers generally. Governor Harding is confident that new measures which the Reserve Board has approved to lower the rediscount rate at reserve banks will greatly benefit the farmer.

"Agriculture is the basic and fundamental industry," says Harding. "Upon its fruits depend the lives of those engaged in other industries.

"The farmer is a great consumer of manufactured products. Anything that affects the farmers' buying power is soon reflected in the business of the merchant and manufacturer. Conversely, depression in manufacturing and other lines of business is reflected in reduced demand for farm products." Governor Harding contended that farming must be made remunerative or the people will see American farming languish and ruinous consequences for the whole nation.

Bankers throughout the country have been asked to give the farmer every possible measure of aid in producing and marketing his crops on terms sufficiently profitable to justify him in staying in business. Bankers, seeing the handwriting on the wall, are expected by the government to respond with more liberal aid.

AS TO CITY CLERK

It is generally conceded that this is an office the incumbent of which should not be changed without good cause. An intimate knowledge of city affairs is a prime requisite for the satisfactory performance of the work of this office. The undersigned was elected in April, 1920, for a term of four years by the largest vote ever cast in the city for any candidate for office. By the adoption of the Charter the term was cut short and it became necessary for the incumbent to stand again for election. There has been no complaint made as to the performance of the work of the office for the years that I have filled this position.

With this brief statement I submit the case to the voters with the assurance that I shall appreciate the support they may give me.

Glendale Theatre

That the product of the National Pictures Theaters, Inc., is to be as varied and diversified as possible is evidenced by the sixth production to be shown under this trade-mark, entitled "The Palace of Darkened Windows," and which was shown to a more than satisfied audience at the Glendale theater yesterday.

The photoplay derives its title and plot from the beautiful palace of a Hindoo Rajah in the Province of Benares, India. The Rajah himself is in many respects like his gorgeous home. An exterior of culture, refinement and charm and beneath it all, the lurking shadows of the inscrutable Oriental. To Benares come Arlee Eversham and her Aunt Arline, Americans turing through the Orient. They meet the Rajah and, unsuspectingly, Arlee accepts an invitation to visit his "Palace of Darkened Windows."

Up to this point the picture has been both picturesque and interesting, but from here on it develops an air of suspense and mystery and the tempo is gradually speeded up until we have a thriller of the first water.

GLENDALE GIVES HEARTY GREETINGS TO CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION

A rousing song service, characterized by enthusiasm, interest and musical effects such as only Otis Ironmonger can call forth at a community sing, marked the formal opening of the 34th annual convention of the California Christian Endeavor Union at the auditorium on Saturday evening.

"Looking Unto Jesus," a hymn embodying the theme of the convention was appropriately chosen as the opening number of the song service.

"Claim the Victory Now" and "He Included Me" were other beautiful hymns in which the clear young voices of the great Endeavor host present at this service rang out true and sweet under the direction of the great song leader.

Yells of various "peppy" unions proved them a live and very human crowd of young people, who know that religious fervor is not at all incompatible with wholesome fun and good-natured emulation.

Invoked Blessing

Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor of the First Baptist church of Glendale, offered the prayer, asking God's blessing on the convention.

Guests Welcomed

Prolonged applause greeted the introduction by President V. Irvin Valentine of Dwight Stephenson, president of the board of trustees of Glendale, who welcomed the visiting delegates in behalf of the city. Mayor Stephenson spoke with pride of the honor bestowed upon Glendale in being given the opportunity of acting as hosts to a convention of the world's greatest organization of young people. He gave to the guests the keys of the city, congratulating them on their past achievements and wishing them continued success.

Rev. Clyde M. Crist, pastor of the First Methodist church welcomed the guests in the name of the churches. He expressed Glendale's appreciation of the unsought honor of being chosen as the convention city this year, and congratulated the young people on tne wonderful opportunity the program of the next four days offered them for spiritual uplift and inspiration to further growth.

Harry C. Allan, state field secretary, responded for the delegates expressing their thanks for the cordial welcome extended them, and their great satisfaction in coming together in convention at beautiful Glendale, with eyes unto Jesus and with ears open unto His words.

Committees and Announcements

Committees were announced as follows:

Nominating committee: Ben J. Small, chairman; Garner R. Searl, Miss Elsa Koch, John Henderson, jr., Lawrence Downen, Miss Edna Calhoon, Mrs. E. B. Walberg.

Resolutions committee: Harry H. Godber, chairman; Glen D. Wight, Arnold Anderson.

Business committee: Arthur J. Gatter, chairman; Dr. Harry E. Straub, Reese Martin, Harry C. Allan, Willard J. Robinson.

Place of meeting committee: Arthur W. Johnson, chairman; Charles E. Culver, W. P. Willimott.

Auditing committee: Carl A. Bundy, chairman; James Cooper, George Higby.

President Valentine read a letter of greeting from Dr. Francis E. Clark, father of the Christian Endeavor Society; Leroy R. Robinson, president of the Oregon state union, also sent greetings to the convention.

Banners were awarded the various societies throughout the state which had filled their quotas of delegates by pre-registrations. Those who obtained more were awarded a star for every 10 per cent more than their original quota.

San Luis Opispo, whose quota was 40, was the first society to fill it, and wired the money to headquarters; subsequently this society won seven stars. Some of the other winners who received banners Saturday evening were the Marin County Society, with four stars; San Francisco, with six stars; Colorado, one star; Stanislaus-Merced, four stars; Alta district, six stars; Contra Costa, six stars; Salinas, ten stars; Sonoma, ix stars; Napa Valley, six stars; Monterey, one star; Tulare, five stars; Santa Cruz, four stars; the San Joaquin society was also among the banner winners.

The assignments of visiting speakers to the pulpits of local churches for the Sunday morning services were read by Rev. E. E. Ford, chairman of pulpit supply.

Inspiring Address

The keynote of the interesting dynamic address of Dr. Cortland Myers, until recently pastor of Tremont Temple Baptist church, the largest Baptist church in Boston, was "Duty."

Like the poet Wordsworth, Dr. Myers considers duty the "stern daughter of the voice of God."

"It is high time before God," said the speaker, "that we cease talking about our privileges and talk in all our conventions about out duty. We know little about sacrifice in this day and age; our lives are too easy, too lazy; we are not persecuted for our faith, we make no sacrifices for it. We are all the time talking about our privileges when the watchword should be the star of duty, ahead of us. The sense of duty puts inspiration into our lives; it gives us moral backbone. I don't know anything I could tell you in this day, any word I could bring you that is a stronger more inspiring word.

"The path of duty is the path royal; there is where you realize life's heroisms. The most heroic conquests may be made in the secret recesses of a man's soul. The battle waged in secret and in silence between the powers of darkness and one's own conscience often calls for more courage than the attack on the enemy on some great battlefield amid the great excitement of the fray."

Loyalty, the speaker said, consists in doing your duty in the kitchen, in the office, in the shop, in the factory; heroism means getting up to go to church when you would prefer sleeping late; it means doing the thing you know you should do, whether it pleases you to do it or not. It means the power of sacrifice, if giving up what is easy and pleasant when your conscience says it is wrong. Your place of security is always in doing your duty; your conscience is the voice of God in your soul.

Beautiful Solo

Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts' beautiful soprano was inspiring in her solo, "Let Jesus Lead," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Spencer Robinson.

Closing Words

Rev. Lapsley A. McAfee, pastor of

EARLY SERVICES DRAW CROWDS OF YOUNG PEOPLE TO HILL TOP, WHERE INSPIRING DEVOTIONS WERE HELD UNDER THE VERY ABLE DIRECTION OF LEON SHAW

The air was filled with the pungent incense of God's wild flowers and the silence was broken only by the birds in the chaparral, singing their praises to Him, as in the peaceful hush of the early Sunday morning hour yesterday, 300 or more of the earnest young people attending the State Christian Endeavor convention climbed the eminence at the head of Louise street for a hilltop praise service.

To the beautiful accompaniment of flute and guitar, the morning hymns of thhe fresh young voices, led by Leon V. Shaw, echoed far down the hillsides—"Jesus, Loves Even Me," "God Will Take Care of You," "Blessed Assurance," and others equally well known.

Mr. Shaw gave a brief talk in which he pointed out that as Peter, James and John on the mount of transfiguration, when they had lifted up their eyes, saw no one save Jesus, so should we concentrate our thought on the Master, and see none save Jesus when we pray; it is only in this recollection of soul that God can speak to us, or that we can hear Him speak.

Beautiful features of the meeting were the repetition of te 23d Psalm, the meditation, the quoting of Scripture verses and the testimonies by various young people, among them a Chinese boy, the flute duet, "Love Lifted Me," with humming obligato by all the young people present and the reading by Leon V. Shaw of portions of Henry Van Dyke's inspiring "God of the Open Air."

The meeting closed with prayer, and the long line of young people wended its way down the hill to waiting street cars and automobiles.

Breakfast is served every morning in the cafeteria at the Intermediate school on Wilson street.

summed up for the young people the salient points of the address of the evening and suggested that to derive benefit from the convention they should (1) learn new things, (2) from the knowledge gained come to some positive decision, and (3) act on that decision.

He called for Bible texts showing that duty, the theme of the evening's address was the keynote of the life of the Master, and received prompt responses from various members of the audience; these quotations beginning with the words of the Child Jesus, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" to His last words, "It is consummated," and illustrating the fact that He was obedient to duty, even unto death.

B. Irvine Valentine, president of the State Christian Endeavor Union and a valued member of the Glendale Daily Press family.

MORE THAN 4000 IN ATTENDANCE

A. J. Gatter, chairman of the business committee of the convention, has the rare faculty of making a long string of announcements, interesting; he also possesses the happy knack of impressing these announcements on the minds of his hearers.

But it needed not Mr. Gatter's keen phychological methods to impress upon the vast audience Sunday night that the registrations upo to 5 o'clock that evening added to the pre-registrations amounted to 4061.

Of the 2875 pre-registrations, 1659 have come to the convention; these added to the 1186 new registrations made 2845 actually in attendance and registered up to 5 o'clock Sunday. Later registrations brought the number to over 3000 actually in attendance Sunday.

This announcement was received with great applause.

Safety First

The Medes and Persians of old had nothing on Glendale when it comes to traffic law violators.

Dorothy Hall of Long Beach motored up Sunday night to the convention and parked her car too near a fire plug.

Hardly had she settled herself comfortably for the evening when a page handed up to A. J. Gatter, who was making the announcements, a notice from a traffic officer demanding that the lady come out and remove her car immediately if not sooner.

Help Swell Fund

Patronizing the convention lunch stand across from the auditorium will help swell the fund that goes to defray convention expenses.

CONVENTION NOTES

The arrangements for the great Christian Endeavor convention were all carefully thought out by men of long experience in preparing for such gatherings and it was considered that all the details were absolutely perfect. But one fatal defect has been discovered. There are committees for every possible contingency except one and that ought to have been foreseen. The committee lacking is one to sit on Otis Ironmonger, the irrepressible. He serenely defies all the convention-alities, interrupts the most solemn speakers and just has to be heard. The only one who could ever "get" Otis Ironmonger was Floyd Clark, and he did it with his talking piano.

A pleasant memory of John Elward Brown was wafted into the convention Tabernacle with the arrival of Otis Ironmonger and Jimmie Garth, as song leader and pianist, respectively, and another familiar figure of John Brown days was J. A. Gasser, who appeared in the choir.

The welcome announcement was made last night that there were ample accommodatioins for all visitors. As Glendale is by far the smallest city that has as yet entertained a state convention, it was feared that this part of the work could not be fully taken care of, but the energetic committee in charge went over the top.

Ladies' Rest Room

Howard Brown

Howard Brown, past state president of the California Christian Endeavor Union, and chairman of the Glendale committee, alert, busy, courteous, diplomatic, efficient, gracious, helpful, incisive, jolly, keen, likeable and magnetic—more might be said, but a few adjectives must be saved for others.

VISITING CLERGYMEN MAKE ADDRESSES

Great crowds thronged the Baptist, Central Christian, First Methodist, West Glendale Methodist, First Presbyterian, Tropico Presbyterian, Congregational, Central Avenue Methodist and North Glendale Methodist churches yesterday morning,

The pulpits of these houses of worship were filled by visiting clergymen attending the Christian Endeavor convention.

Dr. L. A. McAfee was the speaker at the First Methodist church. The musical program included an organ solo, "Meditation," a trio, "Praise Ye," by Miss Isgrig, and Messrs. Kuehny and Haines, an offertory solo by M. L. Doner.

Otis Ironmonger gave an inspiring address at the Tropico Presbyterian church and Harry C. Allan, associate field secretary, spoke to an attentive audience at the West Glendale Methodist church.

At the First Congregational church, Paul C. Brown, field secretary, was the speaker. A fine musical program was given, consisting of an anthem, "Far From My Heavenly Home" (Hamer), and a solo by Mrs. F. N. Arnold, "Hear Ye, O Israel" (Dudley Buck).

Rev. Rowland B. Dodge, associate superintendent of the Northern California Congregational conference spoke to an audience that filled the Central Christian church to overflowing. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Calvin Whiting, contributed an excellent musical program.

Rev. T. E. Nowell addressed the congregation of the Central Avenue Methodist church and Rev. L. B. Hillis was the speaker at the North Glendale Methodist service.

At the First Presbyterian church, Warren T. Howe delivered the sermon. The service was featured by a beautiful musical program: Prelude, "The Lost Chord" (Sullivan); quartet, "The House of the Lord" (McAfee); baritone solo, "The Publican" (Van de Water), by C. Clifford Riggs; offertory, Guilmant's "Melody"; quartet, "Day of Rest and Gladness" (Cresswell), and a solo by Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts.

The sermon at the Baptist church was preached by Rev. Ralph Isbell, and a beautiful musical program included an instrumental solo, Stricklands "Impromptu," by Mrs. Lowinsky; a solo by Mrs. Neighbors, Campion's "Ninety and Nine", and an anthem by the choir, Adams' "Praise Ye the Lord."

The overflow meeting at the auditorium was also featured by good music: Evangelist Harry Rimmer preached the sermon. Considering the crowds at the churches, this meeting was well attended.

Invitation to Library

Glendale's public library invites convention visitors to use the library as a rest room.

The library is two short blocks east of Brand boulevard on Harvard street. It is about three blocks from the convention auditorium, and less than a block from the High School, where some of the delegates will go for meals.

The magic 13 bobbed up last night when it was announced from the platform that 13 past state presidents were in attendance at this convention, most of them were on the platform.

LEGION BOXING SHOW WAS INTERESTING EXHIBITION

Friday night's boxing show at the American Legion hall proved to be one of the most interesting and exciting shows as yet staged by this live bunch. Matchmaker Bullis presented a card of six bouts, all of which were full of excitement and kept the large audience on the edge of their chairs every minute.

As usual, the bouts were announced by Joe Griffin, who promised that they would be fast and furious while they lasted. His opinion seemed to be justified in that the boys lost no time in getting to work at the sound of the bell, and for the most part did their best.

Announcer Griffin introduced to the crowd the noted "Spike" Robison who was at one time the British lightweight champion and has fought such prominent men as George Dixon, Terry McGovern, Joe Gans and a number of other lesser lights of the squared circle. Spike was received with a hearty round of applause on entering the ring, which proved his popularity with the boxing fans.

The first bout of the evening was a curtain raiser pure and very, very simple between two young hopefuls sporting the titles of English and Govert who proceeded to hit each other with blows never seen before in the ring and which probably never will be seen again. Result, draw.

A young husky named Burd lived up to his name by effectually stopping his opponent, Tarr, in one round. As Spike Robison remarked, "This Burd knocked the Tarr out of him."

The bout between Yates and Hack was full of pep and kept the crowd on its toes throughout. They were somewhat awkward but exceedingly willing, and put up a good exhibition, Yates being returned the winner.

A bonafide knockout featured the bout between Walter Dodge of Glendale and Young Sabo, a soldier from Ross Field. Dodge was the aggressor and was scientifically the superior of Sabo, but in coming out of a furious mix-up in the first round took a chance blow on the chin that dropped him for the count. Dodge was game and tried to resume, but could not get the bees out of his bonnet in time to beat the official count.

Messrs. Grace and Whitman opened the next argument with a bang and kept it up throughout the three rounds. Their bout was by far the most interesting of the card and both boys tried to end it at the first opportunity. Grace won and deserved the decision, although his opponent contended every inch of the way and was at all times dangerous.

The main event ended in the second round very suddenly, too suddenly, in fact, to look genuine. Young Jungbluth, a sailor from the destroyer Wood, stationed at San Diego, was the winner and a young man of Semitic extraction masquerading under the name of Padula took the small end of the argument. Padula started out confidently and with the expectation of being returned the winner in two rounds. It developed, however, that the Gob had arranged things differently and very coolly and deliberately proceeded to teach his opponent the fallacy of overconfidence and the superiority of mind over matter. The sailor, by virtue of his calling seemed to be used to heavy going and weathered every gale with smiling good grace, incidentally dropping a nasty right cross and a stinging left hook upon the Hebraic countenance of his ring mate with distressing regularity and malice aforethought. This sort of thing being not in accordance with the sentiments of the latter battler he very gracefully covered up his ears and permitted a right uppercut to connect with his chin, and, taking the count with the abandon of the experienced ring man he dwelt not upon the order of his going, but folded his cloak about him and silently stole away.

The last two bouts were refereed by the Legion's official referee, Curly O'Connor, the former lightweight star who is an ideal arbiter and one of the best posted men in the game, Robison being called away on business. Curly very graciously split the evening with his old-time opponent.

PARIS LADIES START "NO STOCKING" STYLE

(By International News Service)

PARIS, June 27.—Not all the knocks in the world have killed the stockingless fad. Warm weather saw dozens of Parisian beauties at the races minus their stockings, white limbs contrasting sharply with the black gowns, the prevailing mode. A number of the bare-legged girls wore ankle bracelets.

Le Petit Bleu fears the fashion is about to have a rebirth.

"If ankles are perfect they lose nothing by being shown in light and transparent silk," says the Paris newspaper. "If they are imperfect they lose much by revealing the naked truth. Ladies, keep your stockings on."

FLAME OF HATE IS KEPT ALIVE

(By International News Service)

PARIS, June 25.—Reactionary, intensely national groups in both France and Germany are keeping alive the flames of hatred that were a consequence of the world war.

This is the view of Hermann Muller, who, as Chancellor of Germany, signed the treaty of Versailles. He expressed it in an interview with a correspondent of the Paris Excelsior, to whom he described Marshal Foch as the French "bug-bear" in the situation, and to whom he ascribed the French tendency to enforce the treaty by military measures.

"I had hoped that the spirit of hostility between our two countries, which is growing daily, would never develop," said Dr. Muller. "We are neighbors, and we should live on good terms. When the military defeat of Germany was accomplished and Germany became a republic we had but one wish—to throw a bridge between France and Germany and set to work without delay to establish friendly relations.

"But our dreams did not come true. This is because of the intensely nationalist policy of the French government. In each discussion which arises on the subject of the treaty France employs military measures for a settlement. It seems to me that the economic measures foreseen by the League of Nations would have been sufficient."

"Your party, the Social-Democratic, the least bitter toward France, does not let a day pass without abusing us and charging us with imperialism," observed the French correspondent. "Enumerate your criticisms of French policy which, you say, has aided the German reactionaries."

"First," replied the former Chancellor, "you retained our prisoners a year after we released yours. That appears to the German people to have been cruel. I was Chancellor in those times and my people called me a traitor to our unfortunate prisoners.

"Secondly, you used black troops. I know that too much has been said of that, but nevertheless the results were very profound.

Foch Is Feared

"Thirdly, the knowledge that in the Rhine provinces the American and English troops of occupancy regarded themselves as neutrals, even as friends of the German population, while the French troops remained soldiers in a hostile country.

"Fourthly, the French occupation of Frankfort and Dusseldorf.

"Fifthly, the affair of today—Upper Silesia—where it is known that the English and Italians view the matter objectively, whereas the French have joined hands with the Poles.

"Sixthly, France's bitter opposition to the union of Austria with Germany.

"I admit that Germany owes France reparations. She should pay France by reconstructing the damage done by the German armies in the north of France. That is the program of the Socialist party, and that is why the majority of my compatriots call me a 'pacifist idiot.'

"We are carrying on a very difficult struggle against the reactionary movement in Germany. The argument of our adversaries is this: 'The French will always find a pretext for occupying the Ruhr and placing their frontier on the Rhine; consequently every pacific move we make is detrimental to the interests of Germany.' Let me emit one hope. That is that if for some unknown reason there is a delay in the fulfillment of one of Germany's obligations France shall not turn loose at once her bugbear—Marshal Foch.

"France can have confidence in Chancellor Wirth."

CITY IS BECOMING INDUSTRIAL CENTER

Burbank is certainly a wonder city in the way of manufacturing, but modest Glendale is not so far behind, though very often her laurels are given to the sister city. For instance, the Meneley Window Shade Factory, often alluded to as being in Burbank, is wholly within Glendale more than 200 feet from the west limits. The Davis Glendale Company's mammoth greenhouses are fully half a mile inside our city, yet these also are often ascribed to Burbank. The Ever Ready Heater manufactory, that is soon to rise, is well inside Glendale's limits, though often given to Burbank. And the Innes Compression Tube Company, whose factory is rapidly rising, is in neither Glendale or Burbank, being about half a mile from each, in the county. The Moreland Truck Company's million dollar plant can fairly be credited to Burbank, though the offices and part of the shops are outside its limits.

"Honor to whom honor is due," is Glendale's slogan, and it wants no more than its own.

East Street is a place of residence; the adjective doesn't refer to the method of getting there.

DO YOU BLAME ME, ALTOGETHER?

THIS TIME my open letter is to every citizen of Glendale. I want to make a long explanation and a short apology! Read on, I think this will interest you.

To Mr. C. W. Ingledue: Recently I asked Rev. Mr. Edmonds to say what happened at a certain meeting of several ministers and church workers in your store. I was told that it concerned the Sunday issue—your answer to me was that these gentlemen were there advising you to run as a candidate for the Glendale City Council. A splendid explanation. I apologize for allowing myself to be misinformed.

It is also fair to you for me to state that your remark, "Associating yourselves with thugs and saloonkeepers," referred to work against Sunday legislation in Sacramento and elsewhere and, of course, not here in Glendale.

Regarding my invitation to set me right on your inquiry to a certain candidate whose indorsement you had signed, I am sorry that it still appears clear to me from what you tell me yourself that you were concerned about this candidate's views on Sunday closing—weeks ago, before the issue was even bared.

I am also sorry that we cannot agree on the matter of Sunday legislation and that you have to feel bad because we are opposing the beginning of religious control by law, just as some "thugs and saloonkeepers"—using your own words—also are fighting, but from entirely different motives. Let me ask you this question: If you found that a certain reprobate was publicly agreeing with your stand on some matter, would you change your mind because the other fellow was a bad one?

To Rev. C. E. Edmonds: You did not answer my open questions, presumably because you could not. Neither did you answer my personal letter (published in the Press the other day)—presumably because you will not. May I say that your denial that there is a religious issue in Glendale, or in California, or in the United States, is pure camouflage? You know that Glendale is a part of this country, and right now the effort of the Presbyterian Church, of which you are a minister, as well as of the National Reform League, of which, I understand, your Presbyterian colleague, Rev. Anthony Bowlby, is the Secretary, is, in his own words, as follows:

> "We shall work in every Congressional district in every State. We shall agitate and spread propaganda, and cause voters to write unceasingly to their representatives in Congress until no Congressman who cares to stay in Congress will dare refuse to vote for our measures. * * *
> We propose to pass no blue laws. There are no such things as blue laws—never were. And we don't propose to legislate people into church. We propose, by legislation, to make it easier for people to go to church. In other words, we shall try to close the baseball parks, the golf links, the motion picture and other theatres, the concert halls, the amusement parks, the bathing beaches, and so on." (Interview in Philadelphia Public Ledger, November 28, 1920.)

Further, Dr. Edmonds, you write in the Glendale Press for Friday, June 10, 1921:

> "The program of the past year has resulted in 'a clean city kept clean,' and has brought unheard-of prosperity, still some are clamoring for a change, and if it cannot be brought about in any other way, they resort to a program of insinuation and endeavor to hide under a refuge of lies. The whole thing is a slam at the things which heretofore have made laws and real civic righteousness."

You go on and pay your compliments to those who are saying:

> "They see a blue law as a light on the city's horizon and they are trying to extinguish it, WHEN THERE IS NO SUCH LIGHT. These are blind leaders of the blind, and presently both will fall into the ditch."

Further, you go on and say that no such effort is contemplated by any minister of the Gospel in Glendale, and in the close of this communication you say: "Let us adhere to the injunction of the Good Book: 'Speak ye every man the truth with his neighbor.'" That, indeed, is exactly what I am trying to do, and I am called a liar for it!

To Rev. C. A. Crist: Is it not true that the Methodist Church (South) is trying hard to initiate Sunday legislation in the United States? For instance, in a bill recently drafted by Noah W. Cooper and brought at the request of this organization before the Legislature in Tennessee it appears that they want to stop every passenger train and freight car on Sunday, stop the United States mail service, and every street car and automobile, stop all recreation, all amusements, close every public park and every other avenue on Sunday except the one which led to the church door, so as "to make it easier to go to church on Sunday."

To bring this nearer home, is not the following statement, taken from your Sunday sermon, reported in the Glendale Evening News for Tuesday, May 31, under the remarkable title: "Church Has Right in Politics, is Pastor's View," very easily mistaken for a pronouncement in favor of Sunday laws?

> "If the American Church is to save the world, the American politician must be a Christian. * * * Much criticism from several quarters has been offered because of the Church's activity in political affairs. Well, God pity the community if the Church does not take part. * * * Another fundamental of a Christian nation is the Christian Sabbath. Today commercial and other unholy interests have combined to change the Holy Day into a holiday. * * * If we are going to be a Christian nation, then we must preserve Christian institutions, and the Sabbath is a Christian institution. Much is being said about 'blue laws.' What are blue laws?" etc.

In the same report of the same sermon you make the following statement: "The present-day world needs to be saved—by us," a statement which may be meant very well, but which is contrary to the Bible. WE cannot save the world, for "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Acts 4:12. We cannot save the world, the Methodist Church cannot save the world, the only thing in which there is salvation is in the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and it is our duty to bring that Gospel to those who do not know it, and offer it to them—not force it down their throats by law. Assuredly the Church has no right in politics, or Christ, himself, did not know what He was talking about when He said: "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, but unto God the things that are God's."

To Rev. C. A. Cole: Your neglect to answer my questions, added to your attitude in your own pulpit, establishes very clearly my suspicion that you DO want Sunday laws, AND HERE IN GLENDALE, TOO. Will you deny the following quotation from the article in the Glendale Press for June 6, 1921, headed "Propaganda to Create Disorder and Dissension," as well as similar statements made to your congregation.

> "* * * Nor do we propose any Sunday laws. We're Americans and Christians. We believe in the separate State and Church. We also believe in no separation of morals and the State. I believe that an American community should also see that commercialized amusements should not compete at the hour of worship with the greatest institution in the nation—the Church; and it ought not to be countenanced. And that is not 'blue.' You can do what you please on the Lord's Day so long as you do not trespass on public right — the right of American people to protect their own day and maintain its character, and that right is undisputed, it is Constitutional."

You are not merely in favor of regulating Sunday movies, but you go so far as to say it is Constitutional What article or amendment to the Constitution do you find this in?

To Mr. W. B. Kirk: I mentioned your name in one of my letters to Mr. Edmonds. You did not say a thing. Why? Probably for the same reason that you did not answer the fair and reasonable inquiry as to your attitude on the Sunday-closing matter! No one denies your integrity, Mr. Kirk; belittles your energy, or hints that you're not a perfectly fine fellow—at least I don't. But you would not come out AND STATE YOUR POSITION when requested. It is just as easy to say "Yes" as "No," and if you really do want to close the theatres in Glendale on Sunday it would be no worse for you to come out and say so frankly than to allow the issue to be clouded by ignoring it, with your Municipal League friends.

To Mr. R. F. Kitterman, Chairman Municipal League: Thank you very much for your letter. It may indeed be that your five candidates are all that you claim for them, and that your League has no intention to do anything now or later, nor have your candidates, if they are elected, regarding Sunday legislation; but it is none the less true that four of these five refused absolutely to state their attitude on this matter and the current excuse is that there is no issue—now. Is it wrong to ask for a candidate's position on a vital matter that MAY come up? It may not seem vital to you, but matters of conscience are indeed vital to me and to many other American citizens!

To the Anonymous Correspondent who sent me a page from Pentecostal Herald, June 8, 1921, containing the marked article by I. M. Hargett entitled, "The Blue Laws." One marked sentence reads, "It was all a lie. There was not a scintilla of truth in it. Nobody anywhere was trying, or proposing to try, to get such national law. It was like the little girl's definition of scandal—'Nobody does nothing and everybody goes around talking about it everywhere.'" This denial follows a statement which says that the newspapers say that "The Lord's Day Alliance and other reform organizations have united in a great national movement to bring back the blue laws and the Puritan Sunday. They (certain newspapers) said an amendment to the Federal Constitution was being sought." This is called "a lie," in spite of the fact that the secretary of one of these very organizations, the same Rev. Anthony Bowlby, of the Presbyterian Church, mentioned above, himself says:

> "Of course, we shall back no law that would compel a man or a woman to attend church. But we believe that if take away a man's motor car, his golf sticks, his Sunday newspaper, his horses, his pleasure steamships, amusement houses, and parks, and prohibit him from playing outdoor games or witnessing field sports, he naturally will drift back to church."

So the author of the article in the Pentecostal Herald says that all of this is a lie! I am very sorry that Mr. Hargett, my unknown correspondent, and many others are so evidently misled.

FINALLY, TO MY MANY FRIENDS, TELEPHONISTS, STREET CORNER CONVERSANTS AND READERS: I have no personal interests in any of the candidates. They are, every one of them, splendid people; but I would vote for those who come out four-square, who state their position on Sunday laws, on the vital pool-hall question, and on civic righteousness. Five candidates refuse to commit themselves on the Sunday issue in advance—Bartlett, Kirk, Muhleman, Yarick and Walker—the ticket endorsed by the so-called Municipal League. Practically all the others are outspoken and not afraid to express themselves when called upon. That is why I have had to say my little say; and that is why I urge all unbound, open-minded, sane citizens of Glendale to vote on Tuesday next for any five of the following: W. E. Anderson, S. A. Davis, C. E. Kimlin, A. H. Lapham, Dr. W. C. Mabry, Spencer Robinson and D. W. Stephenson, all of whom are strong for individual as well as civic righteousness and none of whom were afraid to state their opposition to Sunday legislation, whether an issue now in Glendale, OR AT ANY TIME.

A GREAT SENSATION

The manager of the Palace Grand Theatre feels considerable satisfaction over the appreciative response which Glendale has made to the invitation to view the great picture, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," which was shown for the first time at that theatre Sunday and which will continue to run today and tomorrow.

No book in recent years has created a greater sensation than the one which bears this title and which has been so wonderfully dramatized. Though by a Spanish writer—Vicente Blasco Ibanez—it was almost immediately translated into English and speedily became the talk of two continents because of its vivid presentation of the world war from the symbolic side, and its tremendous lessons strongly enforced.

As all who have read or heard much of the book know, the four horsemen represent War, Pestilence, Famine and Death, and the story of two households of the same family who are arrayed against each other in the conflict, is the nucleus around which all the factors in the great, dramatic narrative revolve.

Aside from its theme, it is a wonderful picture of great beauty, in the production of which no expense was spared. The cost is said to have reached a million dollars, and before it was completed 13,000 persons had been enrolled in the cast.

Those who have railed at moving pictures as a vicious element in modern life, and those who have defended them as powerful agents for good should both see the "Four Horsemen," which is one of the best justifications the screen drama has ever put forth.

Rev. Frank G. Smith, pastor of the First Central Congregational church of Omaha, Neb., was the "editor-in-chief" of the Omaha News for a day, the arrangement having been made by the management of that paper, supposedly for the purpose of showing how a preacher would delete the usual day's run of news. It is interesting to note very little change in the sort of news printed and especially interesting is the fact that on the first page of the final edition is a large picture of Miss Elizabeth Bertha Smith, presumably no relation to the pastor. Miss Smith is said to be the champion swimmer of Washington, D. C., and, judging from the size of her bathing suit, it must have required all of one ounce of wool to make it. The editor-pastor has an eye for pulchritude.

Representatives of the French furniture industry, recently meeting in Paris, are denouncing present styles in furniture and demanding a new style. They say existing modes are false styles of Louis XV, Louis XVI and other styles of antiques, and are launching a campaign to create a modern and original style. May a benevolent fate spare us from the atrocities perpetrated when a modern and original style was sought a few years ago in painting and poetry!

The most interesting thing about all this criticism of woman's modern style of dress is that 100 years ago the old fogies were saying the same thing.

GRAVE AND GAY

The most marvelous wood workman in the world is Hananuma Masakichi of Tokio, Japan, who has carved a figure in wood so like himself that when the two are placed side by side it is said to be almost impossible to tell which lives and breathes and which does not. By several connoisseurs in art this wooden figure has been pronounced the most perfect and human image of man ever made. Masakichi has faithfully reproduced every scar, vein and wrinkle to be seen in his own body. The figure is composed of 2000 pieces of wood, dovetailed and jointed with such skill that no seams can be detected. Tiny holes were drilled for the reception of hairs, and the wooden figure has glass eyes and eyelashes in which no dissimilarity to Masakichi's own can be detected. The Japanese artist posed between two mirrors while modeling this figure, and for some time after its completion he posed frequently beside it, to the confusion of spectators, who were often entirely at a loss as to which was the artist. The figure stands with a little mask in one hand and an instrument for carving in the other; the lifelike eyes are apparently gazing at the mask, and the face wears a look of intense absorption.

A French soldier who came proudly up to an American in a certain headquarters town the other day asked: "You spik French?"

"Nope," answered the American, "not yet."

The Frenchman smiled complacently. "Aye spik Eengleeesh," he said.

The American grinned. "Let's hear you," said the Yank.

The Frenchman looked around for something upon which to show his prowess. At that moment a French girl very neat and trim in her peaked hat, long coat, and high-laced boots, came along. The Frenchman jerked his head toward her, looked knowingly at the American, and said triumphantly: "Chicken!"

The American roared. "Fine, Frenchy," he said, extending his hand. "You speak English all right, also United States."

WOMAN'S COZY CORNER

By JOSEPHINE FRANCE

A Visit to Brahms

An experience with the composer Brahms is related by Elinor Comstock in an interveiw for Musical America.

"While I was in Germany," she says, "I received a request from the editors of the Century Magazine to visit the composer and ask him for an article on Beethoven. The recompense for this exercise in criticism was to be $1000, a substantial fee in those days. Taking a friend with me for company, if not for protection, I sought out the master in his rooms at the top of an old house. He was by that time well-to-do, as people learned after his death, but you would never have suspected it from the meager way he lived. His rooms stood open to whoever would enter, with only a rosy-cheeked little German Madchen to guard them. My friend and I first wandered into a disordered bedroom, and when we finally came on the master eating his breakfast, there seemed nothing out of the way in our sitting down with him and talking. His ideas were as free to all comers as his other possessions. Fork and fists banked on the table, and my friend and I were not sorry when the door banged behind us. I wrote at some length about our experience to the editors of the Century, and they told me they were tempted to print my letter. Fortunately they resisted the temptation, or I should be today a musical pariah, instead of a respectable educator!"

The Bethlehem Choristers

Nothing finer in American musical endeavor can be singled out for public applause than the spirit of the men and women who have enrolled themselves so whole-heartedly under the banner of Bach at Bethlehem. Their superb singing has not gone unrecognized, but the labor and the devotion to ideals without which they never could have reached their present estate as unquestionably the finest large chorus on the continent, may easily be passed over.

Choristers from other communities in the Lehigh valley, notably the city of Allentown, share with those of Bethlehem in the year-round labors as well as in the two days of triumph each May, yet happily there has been no attempt at hyphenation of the choir's name because of the representation of other places in the personnel. All such petty quibbles seem to have been buried or perhaps never even thought of in Dr. Wolle's chorus, or among those who have played a part in its establishment and continuance.

For Bach pilgrims who have been amazed at the sheer virtuosity of the Bethlehem singers — though it may well be that there is scarcely a satisfactory solo voice among them—Dr. Wolle has given a message as hopeful as it is naive. This is, that choirs like the Bach choir of Bethlehem are possible anywhere—with sufficient labor and devotion to ideals.

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

Tale of India

The biggest production yet released under the National Picture Theatres' banner is "The Palace of Darkened Windows."

The story, which was adapted from the book of the same name by Mary Hastings Bradley, is a colorful and picturesque tale of India. The principal figures are Arlee Eversham and her aunt, two American ladies touring the country, who meet the Rajah of an East Indian province. Also in Benares they make the acquaintance of Billy Hill and Captain Falconer and both men fall in love with Arlee.

In the spirit of adventure Arlee accepts an invitation to visit the home of the Rajah, which is known as "The Palace of Darkened Windows." She is detained there by a ruse and her friends become worried, especially when a Hindoo fakir intimates that Arlee is being held against her will. Billy Hill and Captain Falconer go in search of Arlee and after many thrilling adventures in the palace learn that the Rajah has fled to the desert, taking Miss Eversham with him. The two rescuers have great difficulty in getting out of the palace and resume their search. Following a clue they reach the Rajah's pretentious Indian encampment, and then in a stirring climax the story comes to a close with Arlee so thankful at being free again that she never wants to see again "The Palace of Darkened Windows."

Jean Havez With Harold Lloyd

Jean Havez has been added to the Hal Roach staff of scenario writers. He will write for Harold Lloyd. Havez was with Roscoe Arbuckle for five years and he was responsible for all of Buster Keaton's two-reelers, the last to be released being "The High Sign." Prior to his association with pictures Havez was with Lew Dockstader, writing all the words and music for the famous minstrel's productions and designing costumes and scenery. With Edward S. Porter he collaborated in the production of "The Great Train Robbery," said to be the first picture ever filmed. He is a graduate of John Hopkins University.

National Film Exposition for L. A.

A national film exposition for Los Angeles is planned. It will be as far-reaching and extensive as the San Francisco Panama Exposition of 1915. The Ethical Motion Picture Society of America is behind the enterprise and the holding year will be 1922. Every phase of the motion picture industry will be represented. Exhibits will include elaborate theatre displays, production proceedings, making of educational films, film sets and a Louvre gallery along the lines of the famous French palace.

"Hail the Woman" Finished

Thomas H. Ince has completed the filming of "Hail the Woman." It is said to be a timely and absorbing drama of American domestic life. C. Gardner Sullivan is the author. Florence Vidor heads the cast, which includes Madge Bellamy, Lloyd Hughes, Theodore Roberts, Tully Marshall and Charles Meredith.

RADIUM WAS FIRST FOUND IN COLORADO

(By International News Service)

DENVER, June 27.—Residents of Gilpin County, Colorado, will be keenly disappointed if the fatigue that has overcome Mme. Marie Curie, noted Polish-French scientist, prevents her from visiting that section of Colorado.

A shipment of pitchblende from the Kirk Mine, in Gilpin County, led to the actual discovery of radium by Mme. Curie, according to a statement here by L. G. Nesmith, prominent mining man.

Nesmith said that Professor Pierre Curie, husband and co-worker of the gray-haired woman scientist, revealed this fact to him in Paris some years ago during the course of an interview which Nesmith has made public here for the first time.

"The pitchblende of Gilpin County, Colorado, is the only known deposit of this ore in commercial quantities in the world, with the exception of the mines of St. Joachimsthal, Bohemia," Nesmith said.

In relating his interview with Professor Curie, Nesmith quotes the Frenchman as saying:

"We started our experiments on St. Joachimethal ore, but before we completed them we obtained two tons of very rich pitchblende which I understood came from the Kirk mine, in Gilpin County, Colorado, and from this latter was attained the discovery of radium."

Nesmith said that from some 20 tons of high grade pitchblende mined in Gilpin County and sold in Europe was produced all the radium placed on the market between 1905 and 1908—an aggregate of 15 grams.

You're Probably Paying Rent

to someone who a few years ago started investing his savings in an institution like this.

He had the same chance you have—but he took advantage of it.

Now he gets your dollars—you get his receipts.

Why not yourself be a landlord? Why not see that in the future you'll have something coming in each month, instead of something going out?

Isn't that plain common sense? Rents are scarce and high. Your monthly receipt is an expensive piece of paper.

Think! Are you going to work all your life to benefit somebody else?

Get out of the rut. Save all you can and regularly. Have a home of your own to look forward to.

Your money here will be working for you day and night, earning 6 per cent.

ADOPTS MOUSE PUT IN CAGE

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 27.—A small white mouse placed in the same cage with a South American boa constrictor as food for the latter, has been adopted by the snake, according to Edwin A. Osborne, of 9418 One Hundred and Sixteenth street, Richmond Hill, owner of this unusual family.

The mouse, with the aid of some straw, has made a nest in the coils of the boa constrictor, and Mr. Osborne declares that the most amicable relations exist between the two.

Although the snake is non-poisonous, it has great constrictive power and recently crushed the life out of a rat placed in its cage in 24 seconds. The reptile refused to eat the rat, however, and Mr. Osborne a day or so later placed the small white mouse in the cage. The mouse scampered in and out among the coils of the snake without interference by the latter, and the two have since been on the best of terms.

Mr. Osborne, who is a newspaper man and writer of animal stories who has made a hobby of collecting snakes, declared that this is the first instance on record, so far as he is aware, of a snake adopting a mouse.

Discuss Widening of Los Feliz Road

A meeting numbering about 15 property owners living on or near Los Feliz road between San Fernando and Glendale avenue, assembled at the municipal building, once known as the "Tropico City Hall," to discuss projected plans for widening that road. The majority were there as inquirers not to express themselves in favor of any plan. All wanted to know the probable cost, yet when it came to the point of requesting the city to prepare plans and estimates of cost under all propositions suggested, they hesitated to act for fear of committing themselves to some policy.

Property owners on the north side of the thoroughfare are quite naturally in favor of the plan contemplated by the city in the present proceeding, under which it has now gained jurisdiction between San Fernando road and Central avenue, viz: to widen the street 20 feet on the south side by voluntary sale or condemnation proceedings. But at the last meeting of the city trustees President Dwight Stephenson pointed out that this would create a marked jog in the road at that point, bringing the street line on the south side about opposite the center of the Rice residence on the southeast corner of Central and Los Feliz and should the thoroughfare ever be widened from that point east, according to the same plan, the line would run through the municipal building. He therefore suggested as a compromise measure which would relieve traffic congestion and save expense to property owners, that the city throw the parkways into the street with a narrow reservation for light and telephone poles.

This plan was explained by City Manager Watson, who was present at the meeting and who seemed to consider it only a compromise to be regarded as a temporary expedient. He argued that the ideal plan would make the thoroughfare for the three blocks between San Fernando and Glendale avenue the same width that it is west of San Fernando, viz 80 feet. Should the parkway compromise be adopted at this time he suggested an ordinance might be put through setting the building line on either side 20 feet back which would allow for additional widening at some future time without damage to buildings that may be erected from this time forward. This plan would do away with the jog at Central resulting from the present proceeding if carried through and would divide the loss, each side sharing equally. All objected, however, to the sacrifice of street trees, and all wanted to know the probable cost of any other plan, also whether the repaving of the street would be necessary.

Another suggestion to effect a widening of the street without interfering with the municipal building was mentioned by Mr. Watson, viz., to carry forward the present proceeding and then cut off the jog at Central and Los Feliz by taking a triangle from the Rice property and proceeding on a diagonal which would take a similar triangular slice from the Chandler property at the northwest corner of Los Feliz and Brand and let Los Feliz road curve into the boulevard.

A third plan was suggested by Mr. Watson who dwelt at some length on the traffic problem, saying:

"I feel, after giving the matter a great deal of thought in connection with the traffic situation in Glendale, that we should regard Los Feliz as one of our main traffic highways. It is not to be considered on the basis of a residence street. A little observation on Sundays and holidays will demonstrate this. The very layout as we have it makes Los Feliz road the only entrance to the city from the southwest, and it is not probable that there will be another street. All the traffic that comes from Hollywood and the beaches is bound to come over that hill.

"The intersection of Los Feliz and San Fernando road is the most congested center we have on holidays. We have more need to keep a traffic officer there than at any other crossing. I can see that the people living here who have expected it to be a residence street may not view the matter as I do. I feel that the ultimate thing to do is to make it as wide as it is west of San Fernando, i. e., to widen the street to 80 feet through to Glendale avenue, not that we are going to do it or that we have any intention of putting it through, whether you want it or not. It would involve quite an expense and I feel that as large a proportion of frontage as could be included in an assessment district should be included, and that the frontage on Brand and Glendale north to Colorado should be included.

"I have had in mind the possibility that the people might get together and agree that they would like to have the whole city and vote bonds to buy this entire block for a central park for this property for park purposes and move this municipal building 50 to 75 feet back to be used as a civic building for this part of the city. Eventually we will want the fire department located in different quarters. I am satisfied that the town would respond to such a proposition and it would mean that the expense would be borne by the entire city which would benefit by relief from this congestion and it could then release from this park the ground needed for the widening and at the same time have a site for the municipal building."

Later, Mr. Watson stated that the land he had in mind to include in such a park represented about three acres.

Many questions were asked and after some hesitation the company voted to request the city to prepare estimates and diagrams for their consideration, setting forth all the projects suggested.

Among those present who participated in the debate were A. L. Chandler, A. H. Donecken, Mrs. L. C. Rice, Mrs. J. S. Ripley, Mrs. Annie Bancroft, Mrs. William Harvey, and George W. Todd, who called the meeting to order and presided in an informal way.

Mr. Watson said he could not promise to furnish plans and estimates under three weeks.

Mrs. Bancroft favored the parkway plan of widening and said she opposed to taking 20 feet from one side and nothing from the other, that she would not oppose 10 feet from both sides or a 50-50 proposition. She also said that she did not desire to sell her Brand frontage to the city for park or other purposes, neither did she want to have 20 feet sliced from the width of a lot she owns at the southeast corner of Brand and Los Feliz.
